TIMBER AND OIL

The Fuel on Which Extensive Fores Fires are Feeding.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

BRADFORD (Pa.,) May 5.—The most destructive forest fires known in this section for years have been raging for the tion for years have been raging for the past week. About 3 o'clock this morning a fire started between Glen Hazel and Keltners. Dolliver's sawmill, located between these points, was soon destroyed together with 10,000,000 feet of lumber, the engine-house, railroad switches, sixteen cars of lumber and coal, eight dwellings, an oil well and several thousand acres of timber-land. A special train consisting of a steamer and a large force of firemen was sent from here. The firemen were unable to do anything but divert the course of the flames. Everything in the woods is very dry and the leaves and underbrush furnished fuel for the blaze. The flames are going up the hilliside at a rapid rate and are destroying everything in their path. The sky is black with a stiffing smoke and the flames shoot up as high as the tops of the trees. Several people were injured in escaping from the flames.

This afternoon a second appeal was received from Glen Hazel asking for help and thirty-five firemen with hose were sent by special train. It was feared that the fire was about to cross the east branch of Clarion river and sweep out the town of Glen Hazel. The woods along the Erie railroad between Keltner and Bradford are on fire, and it is feared the loss to oil and lumber property will be great.

VIENNA, May 5.—Count Kalnoky, the imperial foreign minister whose resignation was reported in the dispatches yesterday, retired in order to give Emperor Francis Joseph a free hand in dealing with the crisis growing out of the denunciation by the papal nuncio at Vienna of the Hungarian ecclessiastic bibs. The Emperor today gave an andience to Baron Banffy, the Hungarian Prime Minister. It is understood that His Majesty told the premier that a satisfactory settlement of the crisis must be reached.

The British Evacuate the Port.

Two of the Cruisers Pull Up Anchors.

Admiral Stephenson and the Flag-ship Remain to Salute the Nicaraguan Emblem.

Great Impetus Given to the Central-American Alliance Proposition. Some Doubt as to Where This Country Stands.

lated Press Leased-wire Ser MANAGUA (Nicaragua,) May 5.—(Azzo-ciated Press Copyright, 1895.) The Nica-

MANAGUA (Nicaragua,) May 5.—(Azzociated Press Copyright, 1895.) The Nicaraguan government having, through the Salvadoran Minister at London, accepted the modified Britch utclimatum, the dispute between the two countries is practically at an end.

As stated endusively in the Associated Press dispatches, orders were cabled from London to Rear-Admiral Stephenson, directing him to evacutate the port today. The warships presented a scene of orderly bustle this morning, giving evidence that something out of the usual course was going on. Boats passed frequently between the shore and the vessels, the little midshipmen in charge wearing an air of greater importance than usual. The force originally landed by the British to hold the place was 400 blue-jackets and marines, but on Friday, when it became known that the tension has become relaxed, all of them, with the exception of fity-eight marines and other officers were withdrawn.

Shortly after the flag denoting that religious services were in progress on board the warships was hauled down, the marines who had been drawn up in front of the custombouse were ordered to return to their chips. A few minutes later, the British flag was hauled down from the government building, and soon the soil of Nicaragua was rid of the British invaders and the long strokes of the sallors were eweeping the heavy boats to the warships lying in the harbor.

Hundreds of persons had assembled along the shore to see the embarkation of the marines, and a cheer went up as the moses of the boats headed harborward. The warships were soon riding at short cables, but the'r departure was delayed by the tide, which did not serve until the afternoon. It was expected that the flagship would depart with the two other vessels of the fleet, but when the water was high enough on the bar to permit of the passage of the vessels, only the Wild Swan and the Satellite got under way, and, with

of the flect, but when the water was high enough on the bar to permit of the pausage of the vessels, only the Wild Swan and the Satellite got under way, and, with the red ensign of Britain snapping in the breeze, stood out to sea. The flagablp, the Royal Archur, had out cable again, and this fact was believed to comfirm a report that she would salute the Nicaraguan flag when the government repossessed itself of the port.

As thus been stated in these dispatches, Nicaragua has agreed to the payment of the $77.500 demanded by Great Britain for the expulsion of pro-Consul Halch, and for other alleged damages to British subjects arising from the recent troubles in the Mosquido reservation, but instead of paying the money at the cannon's mouth, as the British government originally demanded should be done, she will pay it in Lomion, fifteen days after the last vessel of the British fleet withdraws from Corinto. There are other questions of damages to British subjects to be settled, but Nicaragua believes that if these questions are submitted to an impartial commission the judgment will be rendered in her favor.

Well-authenticated reports, however, are Well-authenticated reports, however, are that Chief Clerence, the deposed ruler of the Mosquito reservation, who is now in Kingston, Jamaica, is the recipient of £6 per day from the British government, and these reports do not tend to allay the popular animosity against Great Britain, R beims held that she would not take such an interest in Clarence, if she did not have ulter, or designs regarding him. It is broadly stated that Great Britain intended to restore him to his chiefdainship, but to do this now she would have to despoil Nicaragua of the territory formerly ruled over by him, which a few days ago wan incorporated as a State, and named Zelaya Well-authenticated reports, however, are incorporated as a State, and named Zelaya in honor of the President of Nicaragua. In well-informed circles & is not be-lieved that Great Britain will ever attempt incorporated as a State, and named Zelaya in honor of the President of Nicaragua. In well-informed circles it is not believed that Great Britain will ever attempt to restore Charence under the present statutes, since, should she endeavor to do so, it is thought the United States would interfere in what would practically amound to a confiscation of territory.

There is much doubt here as to what the exact attitude of the government at Washington has been. Many conflicting statements are made, some of which are to the effect that the United States, if her government protested at all against the occupation of Nicaraguan territory, did so in a perfunctory manner; while, on the other hand, it is claimed it was due to her efforts in a measure, that Senor Medina, the Salvadoran Minister at London, took such a successful part in the negotiations. The action of San Salvador in guaranteeing the payment of the indemnity, as in fact her course throughout the whole dispute, is favorably commented upon in official circles, and it is believed that an entente will be established that will lead to results beneficial to both countries.

It would not be at all surprising if this trouble with Great Britain should result in a formation of an alliance between the Central American States for defensive purposes. There is no denying the fact that the attitude of Great Britain in her treatment of Nicaragua and in her dealings with other small powers has caused an awakening among the Central American republics to the danger to which they are exposed from British aggression. There is a strong belief here that Great Britain will never submit any question that may arise between herself and the Central American States to arbitration, but that she will herself sit in judgment on the question, and then proceed by force of arms to enforce her own decree.

Not for years has there been such unanimity of opinion among the Spanish-American republics and the situation may be best summed up by comparing it to the flurry among a group of chickens when overnment would find its treatment of ficaragua had cost a sum of money far n excess of the smart-money that she de-nanded from Nicaragua. THE COMMERCIAL UNION IDEA.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—As far as learned, the subject of a commercial union, such as indicated in the above dispatch, learned, the subject of a commercial union, such as indicated in the above dispatch, has not been a question of very recent discussion here by the diplomatic representatives of the South and Central American republics. Union is said to be desirable by some, from the standpoint of a general proposition, but that the formation of such a union would contemplate the prohibition of the importation of English products and the closing of the Central American ports to English bottoms is regarded as highly improbable. It is not believed that any dispatches on this subject have been received here.

Dr. Guzman, the Nicaraguan Minister, would discuss the matter but briefly and then rather discouraged the idea of the formation of such a union as that suggested. Minister Mendonca of Brazil was disinclined to believe that a commercial union between the States of Central and South America was probable at this time. He had received no information that dispatches of the kind stated had been sent to President Zelaya, afthough it might be South America was probable at this time. He had received no information that dispatches of the kind stated had been sent to President Zelaya, although it might be that messages of sympathy had been transmitted. He thought the question of a local union between the States of Central America was a matter for themselves and one in which Brazil had no direct interest. He did not think Brazil would take such a step as that indicated, partly on account of her large interests with England. Why, he asked, should Brazil take any such action any more than the United States?

States?

Official confirmation of the evacuation of Côrinto was received late this evening by Dr. Guzman. His information simply stated the evacuation took place this morning., Dr. Guzman's telegrams apparently conveyed the only information on the subject received in this city through official sources during the day, the State Department being without any news on the subject.

Associated Press Leased-wire Servics SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—Now that Theodore Durrant, the medical student, has been remanded to the County Jail to stand trial on the charge of having mur dered Miss Blanche Lamont on April 3 last in Emanuel Baptist Church, in this city, and Miss Marian Williams on April 12, in the same edifice, the lawyers for the defense are seeking to stem the tide of public opinion by telling on what lines they will conduct the case.

The attorneys for the accused say that they will prove that the yard of the church has been a trysting-place for people living in that neighborhood; that Durrant had not a reputation as a lady-killer; that another member, now an ex-member, did that the latter frequently visits the church though now a non-resident; that this per son was one whom all the young ladies of the church distrusted; that he fre-quently took liberties with them; that upon one occasion he was alone with a young lady in the vestry and that his action were such as to cause her to have a se-rious hysterical attack; that only a desire to avoid a public scandal prevented his arrest and prosecution at that time; that the said ex-member was, during April, present at the church to which at one time he possessed a key that fitted the side door; that this person knew and was intimately acquainted with both Blanche Lamont and Marian Williams; that this person has been married and divorced and had also been an inmate of an insane asylum.

Durrant's attorneys conclude by saying they are confident that before many days the burden of guilt will be openly borne by the responsible criminal.

It is a strange and significant fact, however, that Durrant's lawyers have prevented him from making the statements which, they claim, will exonerate him. Durrant's refusal to explain the things that seemingly connect him with the crime, while in the same breath he doggedly maintains that he is innocent, is largely responsible for the settled conviction among a majority of people that he is guilty.

Monk, General Manager Dickinson, Freight Traffic Manager J. A. Monroe and General Passenger Agent Lomax, of the Union Pacific, Receiver Frank Trumbull, General Passenger Agent Winchell and General Freight Agent Fred Wilde, Jr., of the Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf, relative to matters connected with the abandonment of the Julesburg branch, which Receiver Clark stated would be done on May 1 unless certain things were done by the Gulf, was terminated last evening. Nothing definite was accomplished at the conference so far as could be learned. It is understood that the whole situation will be reviewed by Clark, who will take time for arriving at a conclusion as to what is best for all interested.

Receiver Trumbull and his associates returned to Denver last night. General Passenger Agent Winchell, speaking of the rumors in connection with the arrangement of the Julesburg cut-off, said that Trumbull deprecated greatly the tone of the Denver papers, which were without authority to speak for him in any matters connected with the operation of the Gulf road. He stated that the editorial and local utterances had complicated matters considerably, but hoped there would be a speedy adjustment of the differences said to exist between the two companies.

HOW GERHARD KROHN FOUGHT THE JAPANESE

Though Mortally Wounded by an Exploding Shell He Endeavored to Rally the Cowardly Chinese.

PHOENIXVILLE (Pa.,) May 5.-Chauscey Krohn of the Phoenix Iron Works of this place has received intelligence that his Hong Kong brother, Commander Ger-hard Krohn of the Chinese navy, was mer-tally wounded on board his vessel, the King Yuen, in the naval engagement with the Japanese fleet near Port Arthur in February. Before he was wounded he gave orders to one of his lieutenants to man the gun. The Jieutenant refused to obey, when the commander manned the gun himself, but was mortally wonled by an exploding shell. He seated himself on the trunnion, and, although he was blinded, held his eyelids open with his fingers so that he could see, and endeavored to raily his men, but they still refused to obey orders, many of them jumping .verboard. The King Yuen had every gun dismantled, and was struck 400 times during the bat-

Krohn was taken aboard a junk and removed to the British hospital at Hong Kong, where he died two days afterward, and was interred in the foreign cemetery there. Gerhard Krohn left this country seven years ago and joined Gen. von Hanneken and went with him into the Chipses service, where they were employed in reconstructing the army and navy of that country after the German plan. The property of Commander Krohn was confiscated at his death, even to his wearing apparel. His medals and private goods were claimed by the Chipses authorities to indemnify the government for his defeat at the battle of Fechili, while in their stryics.

THE MATTER OF A SETTLEMENT LONDON, May 5.—The Times has dispatches from Peking saying the fact that the Emperor has ratified the treaty of peace with Japan is known to only a few Chinese. No edict in regard to the matter has been issued. Prince Kung, president of the Trung-Li-Yamen, urged the Emperor to ratify the treaty.

A Hongkong dispatch to the Times states that the Governor of Formoza says its cession to the Japanese will produce is rebellion. He declares that he has lost all control of the soldiers and that foreigners must save themselves. The leader of the Black Flag has appealed to his men to carry out his original orders to prevent the Japanese from landing on the islands. Placards written by the literati have been posted in conspicuous places and circulated among the people, calling upon them to resist the Japanese, and saying that if the island is to be ceded to any nation, they wrefer that it should be given to Great Britain.

A dispatch from Paris says that the Temps has a telegram from St. Peteraburg-stating that Japan has replied to the friendly protests of Russis, France and Germany. Japan agrees to renounce possession of the Liao-Tung peninsula, but says they will retain Port Arthur. This compromise leaves intact all the dangers that the powers wished to avoid. Fresh representations have been made to Japan and the negotiations are actively proceeding.

A Berlin dispatch to the Times A Berlin dispatch to the Times says mothing has occurred to diminish the hope of an immediate settlement in connection with the Chinese-Japanese treaty, though it would be difficult to say upon what basis it will be. It is probable the compensation to Japan for foregoing possession of the Liao-Tung peninsula will be the payment by China of an increased indemnity.

THE SITUATION IN FORMOSA.

HONGKONG, May 5.—The situation on the Island of Formosa is serious and fears are entertained for the safety of foreign ers there. British and German marines have been landed at An-Ping, on the southwest coast, to protect the foreign residents, and Takau Harbor, south of An-Ping, is being patrolled by blue jackets in armed launches. The Black Flags are mostly unruly. The Black Flags are their irregular forces. They are not in China's pay, though sometimes she has a little authority over them. Warfare in their profession, and they raid and rob Chinese and others indiscriminately. They have no law but the commands of their leaders. They are much bolder and more warlike than the average Chinaman and have little fear of death.

The French were greatly troubled by them in Tonquin. It is said that if the Chinese can turn the Black Flags upon any specially hated enemy they consider it a great stroke of enterprise. It is also said when the French during the Tonquin campaign, complained to Viceroy Lidhung Chang against the outrages of the Black Flags: to demand that he secure their punishment, the Viceroy said that he had no more control over them than the French had, they were robbers and Chim had disavowed them.

CHEAPER GAS.

An Important Enterprise Inaugurated at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.-J. T. Stew art of Philadelphia, an experienced build-er of gas-works in different cities, has arrived here with the view of building extensive gas-works in San Francisco. He and his associates, who, he says, com-prise some of the leading men of Phila-He and his associates, who, he says, comprise some of the leading men of Philadelphia and New York, purpose also to introduce a new system and erect works in fitteen of the leading towns on the Coast. Stewart says the charges here for gas are unnecessarily high. In this city the two gas companies charges 22 for each thousand feet of gas. He says his beople will be able to furnish it for $1 at housand, or exactly half the present charges, and then make plenty of money. He estimates that the new plant here with the mains requisite will cost $3,000,000. Brewart in speaking of the matter said:

"There is an abundance of soft coal on the Pacific Coast and screening and stock Blewart in speaking of the matter said:

"There is an abundance of soft coal on the Pacific Coast and screening and stock which we can use can be had in plenty. The crude oil requisite to be used in connection with the coal is to be had here in any quantity desired. The process we use requires only half the quantity of oil for producing the same candle power as by the oil and antique mode. We can furnish the gas at $1 a thousand and have a wide margin for profits. At this rate three or four times as much gas will be used as at present. The city would undoubtedly soon consume 2,000,000 feet a day and at this rate the gas could be sold for 75 cents a thousand. We will live to see the time when it will be reduced to 60 cents."

RESURRECTION

A Type of All Resurrections Which are to Follow - Disembodied Spirits to Take on a New and Finer Body.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service NEW YORK, May 5.—In the Church of All Souls today, Rev. Dr. Heber New-ton delivered the third of his present series of sermons on "Our Resurrection in the Light of the Resurrection of Jesus." During the course of his sermon, Dr. Newton said:

"If we read the story of the resurrection of Jesus Christ we shall see in it a type of every other resurrection that is to fol-low. We are constrained to think is some way about the resurrection life, or Jesus Christ we shall see In it a type of every other resurrection that its to follow. We are constrained to think in some way about the resurrection life, if we are to believe in it at all. Such thoughts as we can form seem to me to be illuminated from the wtories of the risen Jesus. The life to come cannot be a bodiless existence. Nature knows no bodiless existence; everything that lives clothes existence; everything that lives clothes existence; everything that lives clothes existence is one form or other, more or less fine matter composing these forms, but matter of some sort, and there is clothing for everything living. We may be sure that the dead, living still, live not merely in disembodied existence. They have bodies of their own, though our eyes may not ordinarily see them. That is clear in the story of the risen Jesus. The body that shall be will not be some wholly new body, else the continuity of life will be broken. It is an absolute necessity that in the life beyond personal identity shall continue. That means that in some way or other there shall be a continusance of that which is truly vital and essential to our present existence. There is within us each a spiritual body. "The mysteries of clairvoyancy, or o'mind-reading, these and other well-authenticated puwers of men are not the power of an outer power, but the power of an outer power, but the power of some inner organization trausformed by the mind. This, again, we see illumined in the stories of the risen Jesus. At the touch of death, the outer fleshy body falls away, and the entire spiritual body is freed for a new life. It may draw around litself from the tody which it leeves or from the spiritual elements in the encompassing either, the elements of a new and finer material body, or in ways in which we cannot even dream of, the mystery of being 'clothed upon' may accomplish it seems to me the spirit passes out of its earthy house into the house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. Every death is a resurrection. From every sepul

The Journal's representative, who went all over the ground swept by the storm, says that $10,000 will cover the property damage, including houses, barns, outbuildings and fences. In few places are the crops seriously damaged, for grain was not up far enough to be killed or distilled by the wind, and the principal injury in the fields was by the plastering of mud which they received. This mudshower was a prominent part of the storm, but it seems that the power of the wind simply scooped up the black, wet earth from the surface in several places and distributed it ail over other fields. The Mayor of Sioux Center appealed to Sioux City for aid and a public meeting was held Saturday night and arrangements made for sending clothing and money. Officials of Sioux county, however, say that it is not needed.

If there is one study to which Cleveland has devoted his leisure, it is political economy and social economy. He is an omniverous reader in these departments of knowledge. His library is stocked with standard works on various subjects. It is not so much as a means of acquiring in-formation that Cleveland reads with such persistence, but in order to keep pace with the progress of thought. A fact which has been noticed lately is that he now writes for hours. He is always making notes as he proceeds. In the matter of classifying his knowledge Cleveland shows a decided expertness. He has received current works of importance that issue from the press—that is, those which are in his line. They are duly and promptly read and notes made of them for future

Cleveland's book will probably appear when the President lavs down the cares of office, it being well known that he will not hear of any mention in connection with a chird term. Cleveland is presenting economic science from a point of view somewhat in advance of Mill. His book is divided into four departments—production, consumption, distribution and exchange. From what can be gathered on the authority of those who have talked with Cleveland, he does not mean to expound a doctrine so much as to make clear the lines along which progress in economic thought must proceed. This way of going to work has permitted copous illustrations drawn it being well known that he will not must proceed. This way of going to worl has permitted copious illustrations draws from American history. In this Cleveland to strike a new note.

After racing about the ring Parnell finally found a place so close to the edge of the cage that it was difficult for his antagonist to get at him, where he crouched in abject fear. Finally, yielding to the demands of the crowd, the attendants threw a rope around Parnell's head and drew him to the center of the ring, where the bull finished him. The one-sided combat lasted one hour. The lion's injuries must have been internal, as, notwithstanding the terrible tossing he received, his tough hide did not seem to be punctured by the bull's horns.

MILWAUKEE, May 5.—From more than a score of local pulphts volteys were tonight fired at "the gambling evil in Milwaukee." This oratorical symposium was the result of several months of quiet, but effective work upon the part of the Milwaukee Minituers' Association.

Detectives in the emptoy of the association gathered evidence showing the existence of public gambling in Milwaukee. The ministers taid this before Mayor Koch and Chief of Potce Janssen, and when those officials declined to act, they decided by co-operative means to bring the matter before the people. The ministers charge that the gamblers have the protection of the police, and that the policemen have acted as guides to the gambling-rooms.

istice Jackson Returns to Washington — A Reversal Impossible Unless Two More Justices Change Their Votes.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—It is not known what time will be given to the argument of the income-tax cases, which are to be begun in the Supreme Court. The order of the court granting the rehearing did not specify as to the time, and the Chief Justice is quoted as baving said since the order was made that the argument would be at length. On the first argument about twieve hours' time, equivalent to three Supreme Court days, were given to the subject. Then three attorneys were heard on each side. The Chief Justice's order in the present instance provided for the hearing of only two counsel on each side. It is therefore probable that the argument will be extended at least two day, and it is possible that counsel will seek to have it cover even more time.

The motion for the rehearing was for a second hearing on the points on which the court was divided, but Atty-Gen. Oliney stated that in case the petition should be granted he would ask to have the entire question reopened, saying that the government land never been heard as to whether a tax on rentais or dividends on bonds was constitutional as an original proposition, and intimating that he should like to have an opportunity to go into this question is new to Justice Jackson, after hearing the arguments, no reversal of the opinion of the court in regard to incomes from rents and public bonds is possible, unless at least two of the members of the court who participated in the former decision change their votes. ST. PAUL (Minn.,) May 5.—A Rolla (N. D.,) special to the Pioneer Press cays that the half-breed uprising has been squelched without loss of life. Langan, who was arrested Saturday. Pickets were left on duty all night, but no attempt was made.

The deputies were astir soon after daylight this morning. Marshal Cronan had decided that further effort at inducing a peaceful surrender would be useless, and declared that if they would not surrender their fort at Langan he would storm it. A posse left Rolla in a wagon soon after 6 o'clock and drove sixteen miles to the half-breed fort. As it was known that the Indians had mounted scouts watching the regular road, the officers struck east, coming upon the Indians at an unexpected turn, so that they had no time to gather their men from outlying districts. The half-breed fort was reached at 9:30 o'clock, the wagons being left half a mile in the rear, and the deputy marshals advanced, spreading out so as to command the north and west sidee. Spades had been brought, and the marshals began preparing shallow rifie pits.

Marshal Cronan and Indian Agent Hall, leaving their rifies behind, walked up to the fort, the deputies keeping a sharp lookout for any hostile movement. The half-breeds refused to talk with Cronan, but told Hall that they wanted further time to hear from Washington. Cronan told them to make up their minds quick, as he meant to attack them at once. By 10:30 o'clock Marshal Cronan was ready to begin, when the half-breeds sent out a message that they wanted to see him. He returned word that they could send out one of their chiefs, and they sent Chasseur le Potreau, who was chief in the raid or the St. Johns hardware store Thursday night, when they siole all the guns and ammunition.

Le Potreau wanted time to hear from Washington, but was told it was too late. Then he offered to surrender the men for whom warrants were out, except Red Thunder, but Cronsn would give them no conditions. They must surrender absolutely and give up all arms and ammunition, and he would arrest all he wanted. If they did not like these terms, the marshals had come there to fight and were ready. All this time the deputies had been working neater and nearer, and now had a temporary cover provided within 150 yards, at which distance the Winchester buillets would easily riddle the logs. Soon after 11 o'clock the half-breeds surrendered unconditionally, though it was nearly 2 o'clock before the half-breeds surrendered in wagons. Fifty-four guns were found. Most of their Winchesters had been hidden, but they can be found ister. Each man was required to write his neame on his gin. Only those for whom warrants were already out were taken to town, the others being allowed to go for the present. On Tuesday evening next Prof. Billy Gallagher, the popular boxing instructor of the L.A.A.C., and Jack Fogarty, a clever Easterner, will meet in the ring at the L.A.A.C. rooms to decide the question as to which is the better man. This match, which is a twenty-five-round contest at 142 pounds, promises to be more interesting than was predicted for at the outset, and those who imagine that Gallagher has a cinch will probably find that they counted without their host at the finish.

Fogarty, who has been in active training at Billy Furlong's place near San Pedro lately, was in town yesterday, and looked as "fit as a fiddle."

Except for some slight difficulty in getting down to weight, he is delighted with his quarters, and is quite enthusiastic about his surroundings at the beach.

Although Gallagher has little to say about himself, he has been training hard and faithfully lately, and is very confident of his ability to put his opponent to sleep in short order.

Miss Helling, the woman champion of America, in a circular sent to all lawn-tennis players, says: "Let us hope that in the tournaments of 1895 more women will participate in tennis than ever before, and thus make possible a more rapid advancement of the game. Very many good women players of this country are deterred from entering open tournaments for fear of to great publicity. It is true that the accounts of these tournaments are published, but are not also other social events such as dances, fairs, musicales and receptions? Are not tournaments social events as well? Tennis is a purely amateur sport, which fact alone would tend to bor out all undesirable persons, even if the managers themselves were not most particular in this respect. The players are ladies in every sense of the word; they are imbued with the hop of reaching championship honors, and enter these games io win and work accordingly. By taking part in these tournaments the game in general would be improved, and increased enthusiasm among the players is bound to follow."

The breeding of the colt, aside that Direct is his sire, is not known, but the trial was reported by Mr. Salisbury to one of his intimate friends. It hardly seems possible there can be a greater two year-old pacer than Directly, but Monroe Salisbury has sprung too many sensations to create any great surprise.

"It may be," said a horseman who heard the story, "but I'll bet $1000 there will not be a greater than Directly this summer. Accident, of course, is on my side and might protect the bet, but if possible I'll bar accident."

As for Directly, the little black colt has now the two and three-year-old records.

Pennsylvania has the rosiest outlook in the track athletic line, and is confident of lugging off the Mott Haven cup at last, says the Philadelphia item, Yale has a trick of spoiling such plans, and always keeps something up her indigo sieeve. The Quakers have Ramsdall for the sprints and jumps, Osgood for the bicycle race. Knipe with the weights and Orton and Jarvis sure of first or second in the mile, and a lot of good new material. Yale will have a team as strong as last year, for Mike Murphy has a knack of developing athletes. Harvard is an unknown quantity, but has lost some of her best men. These three teams will fight for the championship. A new element in track athletics will be the picked team from the University of California, which will come East in May with highly commendable pluck and enterprise. The Westorners will meet Pennsylvania and Princeton and want to get into the intercollegiates. They have some great athletes, according to report. Some of the visitors' records are said to be as follows: James Scoggins, 100 yards in 10 seconds: F. W. Kock, half mile, 1 minute 59 seconds; Dyer, 120 hurdles, 16-2-5 seconds; C. W. Edgren, 16-pound hammer, 124 feet 7 inches; William Patterson, high jump, 6 feet; Woolsey, broad jump, 22 feet; Hoffman, pole vault, 10 feet 4½ inches. College Athletes.

Only a Rumor.

Only a Rumor.

One of the most interesting remors concerning the coming international yacht races for the cup, says the New York Commercial Advertiser, is that both the Alisa and Valkyrie III. are to be sent to America to hold trial races here and determine which is the better boat in American waters and American winds. These races, it is said, are to be held outside of Sandy Hook in August, and the better yacht will be pitted against the Defender when the first race is called on Sept. 7. There may be some foundation for the rumor, as Lord Dunraven can enter any yacht he may choose to meet the Defender under the terms he made with the Cup Committee; but, while such a move is possible, it is hardly probable. The relative merits of the Valkyrie III. and Alisa can be tested in the waters surrounding Great Britain quite as well as on this side of the Atlantic, and they will doubtless be raced in the early summer races in English waters, and the fastest boat will be sent for the cup. Should the Valkyrie III. be superior to the Alisa, American yachtsmen will appreciate the jeopardy of the old trophy. It is early, however, to predict anything, except that the indications point to the greatest international yacht races ever seen.

Hilda S., with a three-year-old record of 2:19¼, is now in Noble's stable at Fleetwood Park, New York, and is very fast. Hickok has a speedy four-year-old by Stamboul out of the dam of Huida, in his stable at Oaklard, Cal., while Salisbury has also a fast four-year-old out of Tabbie Wilkes. E. H. Harriman, the owner of Stamboul, has a brother to the filly in Salisbury's stable. He is now getting his first lessons and shows well. My Trinket, a member of the Parkville Parm stable, has stepped quarters in thirty-one seconds. She is out of the well-known race mare Trinket, 2:14, and is now going steady and strong. Mr. Shults has also a three-year-old out of Lillian Wilkes that is perfect in every respect. Another choice one is now owned by the New Haven horseman, Mr. Clark, owner of Miss Alice. She is out of the dam of Nency Hanks, and is a beauty. With these coming on, and the foals from the mares bred to Stamboul this year, he should march up into the first row, the celebrated Volunteer mare Violet, dam of Morelight, who was pronounced by the late James Goldsmith as the best prospect he ever drew a line over.

Griffo is the best type of the defensive boxer ever seen in this country. The evolution of boxing is responsible for his success as a drawing card. The spectators at boxing tournaments nowadays, according to one observer, are demanding the substitution of science for brutality, and that seems to be what they are getting. Jim Corbett's desire to meet Peter Jackson before the National Sporting Club of London has renewed the discussion between the big feliows, and it now looks as if they might meet soon. As Jackson has shown a preference to box in England, there will be no excuse now if these two clever heavyweights do not settle the question of supremacy that hinges between them.

The inability of Tommy Lee, the champion amateur 100 and 220-yard runner, to compete this year, is not causing the New York Athletic Club the worriment that the patrons of sport imagine. There are several sprinters in the eastern part of the United States, namely, Jewett, Stage and Ramsdell, that are one and one-half yards better than Lee in the 100-yard event, and three and one-half yards better than Lee in the 100-yard event, and three and one-half yards bis superior at the longer distance. When the N.Y.A.C. makes up its international team it will doubtless have the best in the country.

A telegram from J. C. Kennedy, matchmaker of the Seaside Athletic Club, Coney Island, to "Parson" Davies definitely sets May 27 as the date for the twenty-five round contest between Tom Ryan, welter-weight champion, and Billy Smith of Boston. The articles of agreement signed by Smith, which have been in Davies's hands for a couple of days pending champes of minor importance, were signed by Ryan's manager Thursday and returned to the club. Ryan will come in from Lyons, his training quarters, today for a final operation on his tonsils.

Jim Hail and Joe Choynski are as good as matched. The Australian wanted to confine Choynski to 185 pounds, but Davies will not agree to that condition, insisting upon Hall's original catch weight provision. The Coney Island clubs are already bidding for the contest, which will be set for June 15. Hail is reported by a Detroit paper as saying that Davies is attempting to force him into a match at short notice. Such is far from being the case, as the "Parson" simply accepted Hall's challenge lissued some time ago. Hall is reminded that Choynski still has a forfeit of $500 up as a guarantee of his sincerity.

(Noah Brooks in the Century for May:)
In the latter part of the month of March, 1865, Washington saw many signs of collapse of the rebellion. The Confederate army appeared to be badly demoralized, and deserters, who arrived constantly in large numbers, reported that men from Alabama, Georgia, Florida, and the Carolinas could not be expected to have any heart in a fight which then seemed only for the defense of Virginia, while their own States were overrun by the armies of the defense of Virginia, while their own States were overrun by the armies of the large numbers, reported that men from Alabama, Georgia, Florida, and the Carolinas could not be expected that some action will be taken in the matter of the old proceedings for the widening of Broadway, between Seventh and Ninth wiresets, five feet one cannot be immediately granted, but must be advertised for safe and let to the highest and best bidder.

napolis, and other points nearer the lines, where they were put to work in the quartermaster's department or in the naval sevice.

One curiosity of the times was a Confederate regimental band, which had deserted in a body with its instruments, and was allowed to march through the streets of the national capital playing Union airs. This was one of the oddest signs of the final break-up. People recalled a story, told by Hooker, that when the Union army scaled and occupied Lookout Mountain, a rebel sentry on duty on the crest of one of the most difficult precipices saw our men pile up in solid masses over steeps which had been thought inaccessible, and was so surprised that he forgot to run, but stood with feet rooted to the spot, waitching the Union force climbing up, and streaming past him, and driving the enemy far to the rear, until he was left alone, a statue of amazement. Recovering himself at last he threw down his musket, stripped off his rebel-gray jacket, stood on them both, and, looking far off to the sunny South, stretched out as a map below him, said: "How are you, Southern Confederacy?"

But, notwithstanding such indications of a collapse of the rebellion, at this very time many Northern Union newspapers, led by Horace Greeley and others of his stamp, were demanding that appeals should be made to the Southern people "to stop the flow of flood and the waste of treasure," and that some message should be sent to the Southernera "so terue that it cannot be misconstrued or perverted," by way of an invitation to cease fighting. Curiously enough, the nearer the time came for a final surrender, the more fervid was the demand for negotiations and appeals from the unreasonable radicals in the ranks of Northern Unionists. But all this was soon to end; and while a small party was asking. "Why not negotiate?" the downfall came.

MATTERS TO COME BEFORE THE NEW PROCESS FOR OBTAINING A CITY COUNCIL.

The School Bonds, Main-street Paving, Cement Testing, Head-works Condemnation, Saloon Ordinances. Etc.

The canvassing of the returns from the bond elections held Friday and Saturday will be done, it is expected, by the City Council at today's meeting. The Council will also probably take steps toward the equirement of the necessary sites and the acquirement of the necessary sites and the erection of schoolhouses as proposed. In the matter of the action for the condemnation of land for headworks for a waterworks system the City Attorney will probably be instructed to press the proceedings as rapidly as possible. At the last meeting of the Council was presented a recommendation from the Police Commission that an ordinance be enacted repealing the restaurant liquor items or ordinance, and also one requiring that saloons must actually be closed on Sundays and after midnight. Without any discussion the Council referred the recommendation to the City Attorney with instructions to present the ordinances recomfended.

atudy of metallurgists for years to contrive some practical and economical method by which the metals of value, notably gold, silver and lead, might be detained from passing away in smoke and fumes.

The smelters at Denver and El Passahave introduced a device having this end in view. It consists of a horizontal flue some 1500 feet in length, exposing a surface for radiation and condensation ed the heated gases of upward of 54,000 square feet. The fumes are drawn through this flue by means of a fan, the outer circumference of which, at full speed, revolves with a velocity of nearly two miles a minute. Under this pressure the fumes are forced into a spacious building from which no escape is possible except through a filter of textile fabric, the colorless gases passing through into a stack beyond, while the valuable soot or smoke condenses on the inner side, from which it is collected from this in the colorless which it is collected from this in the colorless which it is collected from the colorless for the colorless on the inner side, from which it is collected from the colorless for the colorless for the colorless for the colorless on the inner side, from which it is collected from the colorless for the color the colorless for the colorless for the color the colorless for the colorless for the colorless for the color the colorless for the c except through a filter of textile fabric, the coloriess gases passing through into a stack beyond, while the valuable soot or smoke condenses on the inner side, from which it is collected from time to time, compressed into molds, and returned again to the furnaces, where the valuable metals are extracted. By this method not one particle of precious metal can escape.

In the ordinary processes for working free milling ores there has been great variance in the results obtained. On the Comstock, where operations have been conducted on a very large and elaborate scale, as high as 95 per cent. of the assay value has been returned, but that was quite exceptional. Ordinarily the return has ranged in the sixties, and seldom scaling past 80 per cent. of the assay value.

A newly-devised process is now in operation at Ipswich, Eng., by means of which from 95 to 97 per cent. of the assay value of the gold and silver ores treated is being recovered. This plant comprises one eighteen-horsepower engine, five-stamp battery, four-horsepower dynamo, electrical amalgamating pan and settler. The only chemical necessity is a solution of common salt of one-half per cent. strength, which is fed into the battery with the ore. The electric current decomposes the halt, liberating chlorine at the positive pole, and forming a sodium amalgam with the quicksilver and amalgamated. It is claimed that by this process auriferous pyrites and sulphureted silver ores can be treated advantazeously, and without previous washing. The pulverized ore and salt solution is carried from the battery by a spout into a vertical steel cylinder, inside of which is a revolving carbon shaft and a quantity of quicksilver. The pulp passes to a revolving horizontal cylinder, and thence to the pan and to cylinder. shaft and a quantity of quicksilver. The pulp passes to a revolving horizontal cylinder, and thence to the pan and to the settler where all the mineral that has escaped the cylinders is recovered.

This last-mentioned process has not yet been tried in this country, but it is said a series of experiments on similar lines are being made at Denver, with a certain class of ores.

Bicycle Suits.

Bicycle Suits.

(Harper's Bazar:) The bicycle craze is so prevalent that the large shops keep bicycle suits in great variety and are setting up bicycles in their rooms to show them upon, just as tailers have a wooden horse on which to display riding habits. Dust-colored covert-cloths and cheviots and navy blue serges are the materials commended this spring to riders of the wheels. The short, jaunty blazer is greatly in evidence in cycling suits. It is not too heavy, goes off and on easily, and is altogether suitable. When made of tan chevfot the straight open frosts with square corners have long revers covered with plain brown cloth neatly stitched in two rows near the edge. The fitted back expands in curves below the waist-line. The large tappering sleeves have gauntlet cuffs of brown cloth. Bloomers of ample width are banded below the knee with a broad band of plain brown cloth buttoned with three buttons. The skirts of such suits range from thirty-three to thirty-six inches in length, and open down the left side, to be buttoned with brown horn buttons. They are not wide, and have two box-pleats in the back so cut that they spread out from the saddle.

Tan covert-cloth suits bound with tan leather are much liked by wheelvomen. These have a Norfolk jacket with a pointal yoke from which descend three box-pleats in front and back. The only lining is in the yoke, but all seams are pressed open and neatly bound. A binding of tan-on-ord leather edges the yoke and the notched collar, which is cut high to wear with a chemisette. The skirt is also without lining, as it would make it heavy before the wind. It is bound with leather down the opening on the left side and in fastened by leather buttons. The blowners, fastened on the side, are gathered into broad bands bound with leather are pathered into broad bands bound with leather and buttoned below the knee. A patch pocket is on the sides of the skirt. The belt is of tan leather.

A HOT-AIR FURNACE,

(Kate Field's Washington:) The custom which assigns a man the aisle seat in a church pew originated in New England in the early days, when it was often necessary for the men to selze their guns ard get out quickly in case of an attack by Indians. Why Men Sit Next to the Aisle.

Some one tells the story of a preacher who discoursed eloquently on the text, "Owe no man anything," and at the conclusion of his sermon called upon all who were not in debt to rise. All the congregation, with a solitary exception, arose. The exception, a lean, cadaverous fellow, when called upon to explain, very briefly and pointedly set forth that he was the editor of the local paper, and every man in the congregation owed him more or less on account of subscription, wherefore he was not able to pay his debts. Deponent saith not what was the answer of the minister and congregation.

NAPOLEON.

Which of His Portraits is the Most Like?

M. Dayot, the Highest Living Authority, Sets Forth Their History.

Many of Them Have No Historic Value — Napoleon During the Egyptian Campaign — At the Bridge of Arcola.

I From a Special Contributor.]

PARIS. April 15, 1895.—Which are the best portraits of Napoleon? This question is one that has often been put to me, and quite recently by the editor of this paper, to whom I have been bold enough to promise a reply. And, indeed, this reply is not one of the easiest to make if one considers that it is by thousands one has to rection the portraits of the great Emperor—paintings, sculpture, engravings and medals. For my part I do not estimate at less than 15,000 or 20,000 the number of Napoleonic Images I have had occasion to examine in the course of compliing my book—counted. The most celebrated is the one painted by Gros at Milan, the day after Arcola, in the month of November, 1796, and for which he was able to obtain, thanks to Josephine's intervention, a cirting of a few hours. This portrait, entitised, "Bonaparte at the Bridge of Arcola," and now in a place of honor in the Louvie, is not only a real masterpiece in design, movement and color—R is also a unique Geelment. R is, as we have remarked elsewhere, a sort of matrix portrait from which have sprung tine greater part of the inages of Bonaparte; from the medals of Manfredin and Vassale (which have, however, a certain amount of independent character,) to the admirable medalisms of Navid d'Angers, and from the satiric portraits of Gillray, Rowlandson and George Cruikshank to the heroic lithographs of Raffet, and the superb paintings of Meissonier. It is, without doubt, the most limportant portrait of Bonaparte, the general. During his residence at Milan, other painters, leas favored than Gros, attempted to catch from pasting glimpses the likeness of the hero, but only succeeded in producing feeble portraits, destitute of character or grandeur.

It is probable, however, that two Italian artists.

feeble portraits, destitute of character or grandeur.

It is probable, however, that two Italian artists, Cossia and Appiana, obtained sittings from the general. Appiant's painting is known to us from the colored print by Allist; thet of Cossia from an interior engraying by Schlavonetti. Both show an angular, constrained and lifeless Bonaparte; their hard and unsympathetic execution forms a striking contrast to the warm glowing picture by Gros.

After his .triumphal return to Paris, Bonaparte found himself even more than at Milan the center of attraction for all the painters, sculptors and engravers.

"Napoleon raconte par l' Image," and while collecting pictures for Miss Tarbell's "Complete Illustrated Life of Napoleon," soon to be published in America; and yet today I am forced to recognize, on completing the volume, that many iconographic documents, some of them of great value, have escaped my laborious research.

Moreover, the subject is vast in extent—simost infinite. For it was not only French, English, German and Italian artists that were inspired by the imperial cpic and dreamt of immortalizing in marble or on canvas the features of the Napoleon of Arcola or Austerlitz, or the vanquished hero of Waterloo: the painters of the extreme Orient als were influenced by the spell of the great Empertr. Across the ocean the noise of his exploits came to their ears; and many of them, either inspired by pictures seen in the hands of Europeans or aftowing imagination to guide their pencil, attempted to reproduce the Napoleonic features.

MANY OF THE PORTRAITS HAVE NO

MANY OF THE PORTRAITS HAVE NO HISTORIC VALUE. HISTORIC VALUE.

Let us hasten to say that these iconographic documents have up historic value—we may even add no artistic value. They are interesting only as showing the wide area penetrated by the rays of Napoleson's giory.

the wide area penetrated by the Napoleon's glory.

The same might perhaps be said of the greater part of the Napoleonic paintings, engravings and sculpture executed by European artists, for the possession of which collectors dispute daily with ever-increasing ardor. The greater number of these portraits were works of imagination, by artists interviewed as it were, by the glory of ardor. The greater number of these portraits were works of imagination, by artists intoxicated, as it were, by the glory of Bomaparte. Without having ever seen him, they scatter broadcast thousands of pictures of their hero painted according to their enhusiastic fancy, in which we may search in vain for any of the characteristic traits of the illustrious model.

Others are directly taken from typical Others are directly taken from typical portraits made by great artists who had portraits in the profession of the general with extraordinary patience, and whenever he could see and study the features of his model, at the time of their execution, was to at the time of thei

THE EARLIEST PORTRAITS OF NA-POLEON.

Born far from the throne, Napoleon could not claim from youth the perpetuation of his features by official painters. It was not really until after Arcola, when Gros painted his famous portrait, that the image of Bonaparte began to irradiate the world. However, there was placed in the Louvre a short time ago, after having formed part of the collection of M. Beaudicourt, a pencil sketch of the school by one of his companions and signed by these lines showing the name of the author and the date of execution: "My dear friend Bonaparte, 1785. Tournone." We reproduce it here.

Does this childish sketch really represent the physiognomy of the young school-boy, the future Caesar? We dare not yet it presents for the Napoleonic collector an intontestable interest; for, until the contrary is proved, it may be considered as the first portrait of Bonaparte taken from life.

Of course, other representations of Napoleon in boyhood were made after his name hade begun to be celebrated. We stil see every day new compositions showing him by turns "meditating in the grotto of Milleli, in Corsica;" "reciting his lessons to Madam Lettita." "organising snowball fights in the court-yard of the college at Brienne." etc. But these are only fanciful works of an interest purely picturesque and we wish to review here only the portraits from life.

A rivalry arose as to who should first represent the features of the young hero, whose olive-hued face, worn by fattgue, but illumined by sparkling, triumphant eyes, constituted a powerful source of inspiration. One regrets that photography had not been invented at that time, for then no uncertainty would exist for us in searching among thousands of documents the true portrait of Bonaparte.

BY DAVID AND BOIZOT.

During this triumphal period two portraits were made of the general that especially merit our attention, although they are of unequal value from the point of view of faithful likenesses. Here, as in all cases where we have to judge a portrait of Napoleon, whose face underwent such profound modifications from Arcolato St. Helens, we must be guided in our estimate rather by the written opinion of his contemporaries than by the infallibility of any iconographic document whatsoever. The portraits we refer to are the unfinished one by David and the terra-cotta medallion by Boizot.

Of the first mentioned little can be said. Quite recently we examined again this beautiful work, now in the collection of the Duc de Bassano, and, notwithstanding the pressige of the author we were obliged to confess in presence of this heavy, inexpressive mask of Bohaparte, that David this time had not been equal to his model, and this in spite of the fact that the latter had honored him with comparatively lengthy sittings. The great painter made up for this soon after when chosen by the Emperor in all the pomp of his assured triumph to transmit to posterity his august image draped in the purple of the Caesars.

NAPOLEON DURING THE EGYPTIAN

CAMPAIGN.

When we examine the portraits of Bonaparte sketched from life during the Egyptian campaign, we find only the profile of Dutertre, official minter of the exhibition, which, until now unpublished, is reproduced herewith. In order to give more weight to the authenticity of this document, Dutertre has given for legend the following words: "I, Dutertre, drew the general-in-chief from life, on board the vessel, the Orient, during the passage to Egypt, in the year 7 (sic) of the republic."

Egypt, in the year 7 (sic) of the republic."

Yet, in spite of this indisputable testimony, and achough we know too well the work of Dutertre to be ignorant of the skill he had in seizing rapidly and accurately the character of the face, we cannot bring ourselves to recognize in this feeble, mechanical, blurred-looking portrait, the nervous, energetic features of the future conqueror of Mourad Bey. Undoubtedly the time he had just spent in Paris, after his wild ride across the Lombard plains, when he drove before him like sheep the armies of Alvinai, Davidowitch and Wurmser, had somewhat alleviated his terrible fatigue and calmed the agitation of his expression, yet not so much as to give him the impossible uspect of a simooth and plump young priest.

Such is our opinion of this portrait, to which we think far too much importance is attached on the sole ground of its having been taken from life.

Coming to the counsular period, we find icongraphy decuments in abundance, some of them of the highest importance; for example, the little portrait by Bellly.

PORTRAITS MADE UNDER THE EMPIRE.

And now the empire. Ave Caesar! To the artists, as to everybody else, the mester gives orders, and the portrait of Napotera, whether by the painters or the coronation, official sculptors or the humble illustrator of Epinal, must now be painted, carved or engraved regardless of absolute truth, after conventional formulae calculated to rouse popular admiration and to dazzle the eyes of posterity.

This is not to say that from 1804 to 1814 there exist of Napoleon only false representations, only living images. Certainly the great official painters of the period—David, Isabey, Gerard and Robert Lefevre, troubled at times by the practice of the sovereign grandeur, whose imperial personification they that to transfer to canvas, yielded to the almost irrosistible need to idealize their model.

But imperial iconography does not consist only of the Napoleon of Issbey—the too handsome boy smiling from the ivery background of a pearl and diamond-frame old snuffbox, the pompous mannickin of Gerard, the Olympian Caesar of David, and the emperors, Bourgeous Adoniaes, of Robert Lefevre. There are also postrafas of Bonapurte executed by conscientious artists desirous of truth, and with the sole aim of transmitting to posterity the faithful efficient of the portraits are rare, but they exist, and it is before them that the historian who wheles to divine under the impassive fentmentiate.

THE GREAT PORTRAIT BY DAVID IN

Chief among those precious documents is the admirable portrait of the Emperor, painted by David in 1812, herewith reproduced. Here we have no Caesar draped in the robes of Charlemagne, crowning the kneeding Empress with a gesture of superhuman grandeur; no Emperor standing erect beside his throne and exterding his hands over the standards lowered before him; no general crossing the Aips, sitting werene on a flery steed, his cloak floating behind him like the wings of an eagle, but a Napoleon in every-day sattire, etanding among his books, in an attitude of profound meditation.

This poutrait, the property of Prince Louis Napoleon, and flguring in the chateau of Prangiers, is striking, y true and forcible in expression.

It is late. The candles are nearly burnt out. Innumerable leafets, covers with a clumay handwriting, lie scattered on the deak and testify to the arduous occupation that engrosses the Emperor in the watches of the night, after the day's fatigues. His somewhat hand expression of profound reverie seems to follow the flight of the ideas engrendered in his brain. The contraction of the powerful jaws, the slightly tightened expression of the lips, the carriage of the head, all indicate a will unshaken in resolution. He wears the uniform of a colone of the Chasseurs de la Garde, white waistoat and breeches and buckled shoes.

In this decisive work we feel that David, anxious for his own glory, has abandoned all exaggeration and become sincerity itself.

"David," says the great historian, Michelet, "took two years to finish this portrait, in which he shows himself.

order an exageration and become sin-certly liself.

"David," says the great historian, Mich-elet, "book two years to finish this por-trait, in which he shows himself con-scientious and courageous, free from a desire to please and aiming only at the truth.
"He painted he Emperor such as he always was, without eyebrows or eyelashes and with a scanty crop of hair of a doubtful chestnut color, which in youth appeared black from the effect of pomade.

ful chestnut color, which in youth appeared black from the effect of pomade. The eyes are gray, like a pane of glass in which one sees nothing. In short, a complete impersonality, obscure and in appearance phantasmagoric.

"He as stout and yet one can distinguish the psculiarity he showed from birth and which he took from his mother—the very prominent cheekbones, characteristic of all Coraicans and Sardinians. He says himself that he resembled his mother and took after her in everything. In his boyhood he was her small, shrunken image," etc.

In his boyhood he was her small, shrunken image," etc.

In this pensive mask, in all the details of the face, in the form of the powerfully-drawn head, in the attitude fiself, appears the characteristic features of the most typical members of his family, such as the King of the Westphalia and Prince Napoleon. One cannot help being reminded of them in contemplating the imperial portrait by David, and that involuntary comparison is one of the most decisive proofs of its truth of life.

(Tacoma Ledger.) The Populist orators and editors, the organizers of newfangled and old-fangled trades unions, preachers of the Prof. Herron stripe and other apostles of discontent, disorder and disaster, never make any effort to point out to those who listen to them the way by which their condition can be improved. That is to say, they point out no practical way. It does not cut their purpose to do so, because the practical way makes every man self-reliant and independent. By following it he has no need for the walking delegate, the member of the trades council and the various other tosses who draw good salaries from his carnings for doing nothing but getting him into trouble, nor for the political boss whom the Populist wants him to patronize in the expectation that legislation will in some way support him without work. There is reason to believe that men who work and think and do not altogether trust to other people to do their thinking for them, are beginning to find this out, and 2 is for that reason that Populists are obliged to keep up such a continual and everincreasing clatter about "wage slavery" and "monopolistic oppression," and that professional laboring men like Debs and Howard are compelied to offer new delusions, as, for example, their co-operative scheme, to induce the unwary to unite with them; buy memberships and pay dues in their new organization, so that they may not only have large safaries, but large funds to menage and profit by and never account for them. If these people told those who listen to them that every large fortune in this country has its beginning in the careful, saving and judicious investing of some man whose earnings were not large when the eaving process began, and that every man who will soon have an income that will equal his wages, none of their schemes would soon be told that maney in tank was more sure to bring its return than if intrusted to some union treasury, and that employment at good wages could be secured more regularly by the indiv been hauled up for having monkeyed with the hymn foundry. Col. Dan Burns appears to be in danger of losing his title of the "Prince of Candelaria," as other parties have risen up and assert that they were hornswoggled out of the big Mexican mine which has proved the a bonanza for Col. Dan. It seems in Billings was right in saying that when a man starts down hill it ers is costing the laboring classes far too large a share of their earnings and the world too large a share of its progress. Every didlar that the wage-earner wastes upon these pretended friends who seem so anxious to better his condition, but are really only bettering their own at his and everythdy cise's expense, would be $2 added to his store ten years hence if saved and securely invested. The many dollars he wastes in useless strikes, or in dileness waiting for work that cannot be done upon the terms he fixes, would double with equal rapidity. What would be doubled at the end of ten years would be doubled again at the end of twenty and again at the end of thrity. It is a matter of absolute demonstration that under the average conditions that prevailed in this country while the Republican protective policy was in undisturbed operation any man of industrious and thrifty habits, enjoying average breath, might accumulate acompetence sufficient to support himself and family by the time he was 50 years old. Very many failed to do 0t, but thousands and hundreds of thousands did do it, and others would have done if if they had not wasted their time and earnings in following vain delusions.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

MINISTER'S ARRAIGNMENT OF JUDAS ISCARIOT.

Sins That Move with Accumulating Power—Gospel Meeting by the Young Woman's Christian Association.

Rev. A. C. Smither preached to a good audience last night at the First Christian Church upon Judas Icariot." Bad men often teach the world valuable lessons, said the speaker. Few men have been considered viler than Judas Iscarlot and few lives have taught with greater emphasis the vileness of sin. The speaker then traced the life of Judas as told in the New Testament, reciting the few facts the New Testament, reciting the few facts that were told concerning him.

The Germans invented a new theory concerning Judas's motives. This view was presented to the English-speaking world by De Quincey. It is held by this class of interpreters that Judas was prompted by patriotic motives and hoped by betraying Christ that Christ would assert His Messianle purpose and enter upon His public work. In support of this theory the small price accepted by Judas for betraying Christ, the fact that Jesus chose Judas as an apostle and Judas's repentance and suicide are urged. Such an interpretation is in direct conflict with all scripture upon this subject. Judas was an avaricious man, and a thief. He was led into betraying Christ unquestionably by base reasons. He wanted the money that could be secured by it. He hated Christ because he had been rebuked by Him for his wickedness. An additional motive may have been that he wanted to be in favor with the enemies of Jesus, as he saw the evil forces arrayed against the Son of God. Judas's life teaches that "murder will out." that sin will be discovered, that, like the fires burning in the volcano, it will reach the public and there expend its force and receive its reward. There is no way of concealing sin, no means of hiding its direful face, of destroying its blasting and ruinous touch. If men could but learn this, what heinous crimes could be prevented, what great evil could be stayed! We learn further that sin is social; that sins move downward. In our first vision of Judas he is chosen by Jesus as an apostle. He next appears as an avarictous man, one desiring money, the love of which is the root of so many evils. Prompted by this love of money he became a thief, stole money from the bag carried by the twelve, and out of which money was often given to the poor. This followed directly upon the former, and led to the betrayal of Christ, a selling of his Master, into the hands of His enemies for thirty pieces of silver, Judas could not live and move happily in the presence of sin always. The only way to avoid the evils connected with sinning is to refrain from its practice.

The

The man of today, who, under the glorious teachings of Jesus, lives a vile life, degrades manhood, debauches human life. Such a man is betraying the crucified Christ into the hands of evil and will bring upon himself the sad end of Judas. Many souls will be lost that thoroughly hate Judas and that are yet partakers of his sin. his sin.
Sin is the world's darkest enemy. The

To owe ourselves to Christ, to live for Him, manifesting His love to any one of our fellow-men that needs it; this is to show that we know what Christ suffered and willingty bore for us."

In closing, Mrs. Francis said: "If we go hand in hand with the world it will love us. Christ will not take us out of it, but would have us separate ourselves from its sinfulness. Then-will the world hate us, but we will know that we are sharing Christ's lot and doing what we can for His sake."

THE RESURRECTION DOUBTED.

LOS ANGELES, May 3.—To the Editor of The Times:) Episcopalisms and members of other religious denominations in Southern California are interested in what promises to be a celebrated theresy trial in New York in the near future. In a recent sermon the Rev. R. Heber Newton, an Episcopalian clergyman of prominence in the metropolis; said: "What are we to understand by the resurrection of Jesus an Episcopalian clergyman of prominence in the metropolis, said: "What are we to understand by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead? What the church undestands is plain. Without doubt the general belief is that there was a physical resurrection—a rising from the tomb of the very body of fiesh and bones which was laid away there after the crucfixion. I have held to this belief as long as possible, but no superstructure can forget its foundation, and my reasons for rejecting this belief I propose to tell you. We know now from our fuller knowledge of the times of Jesus Christ that the people and His disciples themselves believed not only in immortality, but in an actual physical resurrection. I cannot accept the testimony of the disciples. And there is the fact that no one saw Hūm in the act of rising from the tomb and passing forth in the same identical form of His carthly body.

1 am frank to say that for one I do not believe the resurrection of Jesus Christ means the rising again from the tomb of the actual body laid away there. The church undoubtedly believes it, and its authority is no higher than the authority of the discoples."

The commission appointed to investigate Dr. Newton's so-called heretical utterances in 1891 is still in existence, and there is strong probability that his statements here quoted will result in another church triel of mational interest. YALE.

WATER RUNS UP HILL.

Some Things a Tenderfoot Had to Learn.

A lanky New Englander approached a policeman the other day and inquired: "Is this North Main street" "Yes," answered the officer. "Are you sure it runs north and south?" "Yes, sir." "Well, I want to go to East Los Anzeles."

"All right, sir. Just keep straight up this street and it will bring you to East Los Angeles."

The stranger eyed the officer for a moment, and then said, in a tone of disgust: "Great Scott! If this ain't the darndest town I ever struck! Some of the folks at home told me, before I come out here, that your winter was in summer, and it was summertime in the winter: your that your winter was in summer, and it was summertime in the winter; your young women were old and your old women young; that you chopped around on the hills for your water, and dug up your wood in the valleys—and that isn't all, either. I thought I'd get up the other morning and see the sun rise out in the east near my old home. Well, I sat there looking for it to come up, and the first thing I knew it was burning the back of my neck. Now, you tell me that this road runs north, and that it goes to East Los Angeles," and the disconsolate Vankee wandered away, muttering something about going home to Maine if he could only find out which way to start.

The modus operandi of "Australian Jimmy" was somewhat different from that of most other pickpockets, and the little black shawl played a very prominent part. "Jimmy" would get in his "graft" by carrying the shawl on his right arm and concealing his hand under it when operating on a victim. Under this cover he could ing on a victim. Under this cover he could remove a purse or watch from the owner without attracting the attention of other

The detectives had been posted on "Jimmy's" method, and were warned to be on the lookout for him, as it was known he had started for Los Angeles.

It was on one of the first days of the festival that Detective Goodman got his eagle eye on a young man who went about with a little shawl on his arm. The detective followed him and noticed that he always tried to squeeze in where the crowds were thickest. Finally he saw him push up a longside of a well-dressed woman at Central Park, and begin fumbling about with his concealed hand in the lady's purse. The detective thought he had already secured the purse when he nabbed him, but he made the arrest just a moment too soon to get the incriminaing evidence.

"Jimmy" was very indignant when led away from his intended victim by the nape of the neck. He said his name was James Buchanan, and that he was a British subject lately arrived from Portland, Or. He demanded to see the British Vice-Consul and threatened to make it hot for the parties who kept him in limbo. The British Vice-Consul was allowed to see the prisoner, but being convinced that he was a crook and not the steward of a British ship on a furlough, as he professed, he declined to interfere.

Few women have a settled rule about taking sercise, and a friend of the writer, living in the country, who confessed that she never went outside her doors for two months last winter, is but a type of many who lead shut-in lives because they do not realize the absolute need of outdoor air for their mental and physical well-being.

Nothing is more natural than for a mother to wish to see her children prettily and appropriately dressed, but if this can only be done by a constant and unremitting labor, which obliges her to give up the labor, which obliges her to give up the privilege of being a companion to he children, is it not a great and fatal mis privilege of being a companion to her children, is it not a great and fatal mistake?

Simple clothing and a mother interested and companionable are better for every child than all the luxury in the world, and if the good times which they have together can be taken out of doors, how fortunate for every one concerned!

A good way to dispose of the necessary "spring sewing" is to engage a skilful seamstress who operates the sewing machine. If the garments are cut out beforehand, she will be able, if they are plain in style and simple in construction, to do all the machine work in three or four days on a large number. Simple gingham slips for ordinary wear in summer, which are quickly made and easily laundered, should form the principal part of every young child's wardrobe at that season. With this work all done, summer, when it comes, may be fully enjoyed by the mother, as well as the children.

In one household known to the writer a seamstress is engaged to come one day each week during three months, January, and March, and the intervals between are spent in finishing thee work she has left, and planning other work for the next sewing day. Surely some plan could be devised by every woman to reduce this necessary work to a system, and enable her to enjoy a daily outing with her children in the lovely days of spring and early summer, unfettered by worry about the sewing.

aroused by the loud weeping of my comrade, who had not left his bed in another part of the room.

When we had sufficiently collected ourselves to dress and go out of doors in the bleak and cheerless April morning, we found in the streets an extraordinary spectacle. They were auddenly crowded with people—men, women and children thronging the pavements and darkening the thoroughfares. It seemed as if everybody was in tears. Pale faces, streaming eyes, with now and again an angry, frowning countenance, were on every side. Men and women who were strangers accosted one another with distressed looks and tearful inquiries for the welfare of the President still lived, but at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, the tolling of the bells announced to the lamenting people that he had ceased to breathe. His great and loving heart was still. The last official builletin from the War Department stated that he died at 7:22 o'clock on the morning of April 15.

The newboy known as "Jimmy, the Globe-trotter," was thrown in a cell at the same time as "Australian Jimmy," for the two had been rooming together, and it was suspected that they were accomplices in crime. It was by imprisoning such suspicious characters in advance that the detectives prevented the commission of many robberies during flesta week.

The Spring Sewing.

(Harper's Bazar:) It is claimed that two or three hours spent daily in the open air is essential to perfect health, but how to take so much time from necessary duties is a great problem in a woman's life.

Unfortunately, all of the average woman's duties lie indoors, and must perforce be done there—sweeping and nursing and sewing, and if she have a family of children, and a purse not overfull, the sewing alone is enough to occupy her every day and all day.

Few women have a settled rule about taking exercise, and a friend of the writer, living in the country, who confessed that ahe never went outside her doors for two

Two New Fibers.

(Textile Recorder:) "Gelsoline" is the new texture produced in Italy from the fiber of mulberry-tree bark. The fiber is obtained by chemical retting of the bark of young twigs and is purified by treatment with coap and soda. It is said to have ten times the strength of American cotton, costs about one-tent as much as Italian flax, and, owing to its perfect cylindrical shape, yields very close fabrics, requiring no filling. It absorbs liquids with facility, and is, therefore, easily dyed. The new fabric is the invention of Guieseppe and Dr. Glusto Pasqualis, and has already gained some importance, as the works at Vittorio turn out annually some 45,000 yards of upholstery fabric, damask, gobelins, piqes, etc.

T. R. Spoendin, Zurich, has obtained an English patent for the production of stockings and underelothing from "nettle wool." The nettle fiber, first softened by treatment with olive oil, yields fabrics of great warmth, which readily absorb perspiration.

Bitten by a Dog.

A young man named E. Bernard came to the Receiving Hospital yesterday evening to be treated for a dog-bite. He said he went to the house of Karl Roeder, a butcher living on Amelia street, to buy some meat when a vicious dog, owned by the butcher, rushed at him and bit him in the calf. But for the fact that the dog was chained he would no doubt have injured his victim a great deal worse. Dr. Bryant cauterized the wound which was not a deep one. Bernard says Roeder's dog is a terror to the neighborhood and has already bitten several people. Alas! I am a graybeard;

The Soldiers' Home is about to do its own domestic printing. A small job of-fice will be put in at once, and an abund-ance of talent in the art preservative can easily be drawn from the membership.

San Diegans are surprised. Six men ave been arrasted in Los Angeles and held for trial for playing poker. Down by the Silver Gate they don't think life is worth the living without a little of the great American game.

Up at Tacoma they have tanned a dead murderer's skin and made it tillo pocket-books. If murderer's skins could be "tanned" thoroughly before death with whips or otherwise, possibly there would be fawer murdens, and the pocketbooks of the taxpayers would be taxed less in paying for murder trials.

Conswain Johnson, recently killed on the cruiser Olympia off San Diege, in a letter to his brother, shortly before his death. remarked that the executive officer of the ship was a "sundowner." This is an ad-dition to the great vocabulary of slang. Many persons are unacquainted with it "sundowner" goes,

There has been an invasion of a spaces of cut-worm at the Soldiers' Home which is puzzing the managers of the gardens and farm. The peaks are in the form of a slightly-fuzzy worm, from as inch to an inch and a haif long, and they have appetites like a possician for office. Their depredations have been serious upon trust trees, shrubs and ornamental plants.

Speaking of the carnival lately held in this city, the Porterville (Tulare county) Enterprise says: "T__ Resta, from the moment La Reina mounted her throne, Tuesday, until the morning hours of Sun-day, when the weary pleasure-scaker re-turned, after one round of continued en-loyment, was in every way a grand kin-cess, and not one work of complaint could be heard in Lus Angeles or anywhere else against the way the festivities had been carried out." This may be putting it rather stronger than the facts warrant, but the kickers were not numerous or rotent. They fell down.

The railroads have given free transpor tation to five leading Southern California hotel men to New York. Three of them left on Saturday night and the other two last night to attend the Nutional Convention of Hctel Men for the purpose of inducing the hotel association to hold its 1896 convention in Southern California. They are authorized to offer the member of the association a round-trip rate of $40, or the same round-trip rate given to Dencongratulation if the convention can be held here next year. About four hundred hotel men from all parts of the country attend these conventions.

The Oakland Enquirer has a correspondent out loose who has something to say in a late issue of that paper about Los Angeles oranges, and what little he does say is so poorly said that it is evidently the emanation of a disordered liver. He for-gets that what were orange groves a few years ago have since been overrun by city requirements and been divided up into city lots. Because there remain on some of those lots a few uncultured orange trees is a fact that should not be mistaken as to how grapge trees grow and thrive in Los Angeles county. Pasadens and other out-side localities are sufficient to disprove the stilly statements of the Enquirer's corre-spondent. His head is like the orange which, apparently, he is most familiar with and which he describes as "thick-rined an woody." These are the kind of corre spondents they raise in Alameda county.

LACK OF ENTERPRISE.

New York Capitalists Afraid Make New Investments.

Make New Investments.

The Times is in receipt of a letter received by a gentleman in Los Angeles from a correspondent in New York in reference to mining properties in Callifornia and Arisona. The writer states that at the present time New York is, without exception, the poorest city in the United States to float any enterprise, mining or commercial. Capitalists, he says, have lost all enterprise, all that they think of being to loan money on call on securities dealt in on the Stock Exchange. He adds that this state of affairs has been produced by the demonstiration of silver, which makes gold perform a double function, with the result of increasing the purchasing power of gold, as the consequence the lowering of prices of manufactured goods as well as agricultural products. The writer, in conclusion says that such a condition of after a want of confidence which, in turn, has caused capitalists to shut down on new enterprises, and that for all this there is but one remedy, the remonetization of silver relieving gold of its present double duty.

Beantiful Carnations.

Speaking of carnations, a correspondent of the Oakland Enquirer says:

"Two or three spots in Southern California are famous for their beautiful arnations. In Santa Barbara many fine arnations were sold, and upon inquiry it ras found they were from Redondo. In los Angeles two wagonloads of these lowers were brought in one day from the lace of Capt. Gray of Alhambra, who has everal acres devoted to the growing of armations aione. At both Redondo and alhambra: there is a gravelly soll, and it a said that the perfect drainage which this affords is one of the reasons why the carnation grows to such size and in such beauty."

specially noticeable is the advance in slectrical work, and more particularly in electric lighting, and the Los Angeles Electric Company has made a record in taph progress that few cities can equal. The company was organized in 1881 by the late George H. Roe, who held the Brush rights for the Pacific Coast. The city had advertised for lighting bids. Those were experimental days, but, nothing faunted, the contract was applied for, and secured, and the installation of the flectric light was promptly taken in hand. mptly taken in hand o light was promptly taken in hand, barely twelve years since the ignight of the service. Moreover, they liked it, and an enactment was shortly afterward passed by the mulicipal authorities that the gas posts which led been left standing, pending the result of the experiment, should be taken down, and Los-Angeles blossomed out into the distinction of being the first city in America that was lighted entirely by electricity.

first station was built in the cenan old wineyard, on a spot which the corner of Banning and Alameda, and covered with buildings. In the foundation the workmen had extra labor in clearing away the of the vines, but they evened up by feating on the grapes which are plentifully all around the site building. The pisin, but substantion, which was but 50x50 feet, had est enough start. The generating was included in two Brush No. 8 es, of the old type of armature; these, a 3000 candle-power, was ir city lighting, the other, a 2000 power, for commercial service, are driven by two fity-horse-power eed engines, made by the Fulkon Works of San Francisco. The suctive city contract work, which at the lighting the work, which at the lighting the work, which at the lighting the work work, which at the lighting the supplier of the succession of the succes prised the lighting of seven masts, 150 aigh, each mast carrying three 3000-diepower are lamps, was so proneed that the entire output of the plant immediately taken up. The debris by the workmen had hardly been used away before it was found necessary provide more power. This was done enlarging the station, increasing the erating plant by two more Brush manes, and adding a 200-horse-power Corengine, with corresponding boiler carly. About this time the company musted to Mr. Warren an investigation a the merits of crude petroleum as fuel. result of the tests was satisfactory, the company decided on the regular of oil instead of coal. They were the in California to adopt the new fuel, the they did in the face of many fore-ness of failure.

abob they did in the face of many foreodings of failure.

In 1893 the company moved into the resent building, at the corner of Alaseda and Palmetto streets, on a lot of and 130x300 feet. The station has a routage of 100 feet, and is 130 feet deep, and the capacitous yard gives ample room at all extensions that are likely to be resuired for some time to come.

The Brush system is used for the arc iteutis, and the incandescents are opeated by the Wesdinghouse alternating sysme. The total length, of the circuits, which in 1852 was six miles, is now 120 siles. The main part of the service is applied by overhead conductors. There are eighteen are circuits and five incanscent mains. The station is located 6000 interesting features of the station. Water in California, where raims are usually light, is golden, a miner's inch of water being valued there at $1000; and steam coal at $10 a ton is, an expensive luxury; so the company was fortunate to acquire the right to divert the water from its channel to a iong reservoir within the works, from which it was pumped through the condensers, and then passed back into the zanjas. It was found that not only did this evitall no waste of water, but that the raising of the temperature of the water increased markedly the growth of the fruits and vegetables in the irrigation stea, which was thus more effectually served than it would have been by the normal cold water supply. The station has also a system of cooling pans, into which, in case of a temporary failure of the zanja supply, the water from the condensers is pumped. After being exposed to the atmosphere, the water is returned to the tank cool enough to be used over again. It goes into the pans at 150 deg. Fabr. and reaches the tank at 80 deg.

The electric generating plant now consists of sixteen No. 8 Brush dynamos; a Westinghouse 120 k. w. automatic regulating, compound wound, alternating current generator; one National system 120 k.w. generator; one Westinghouse 240 k.w. compound wound, alternating generator, and an additional Westinghouse 240 k.w. afternating current generator is just, being installed. #### IN OLD JAPAN.

Climate and Flowers in the Land of (Alfred Parsons, in Harper's Magazine for April:) From the spring-time, when I reached Japan in the rain and began to for April:) From the spring-time, when I reached Japan in the rain and began to grumble at the weather, and all through the damp and the downpour of the summer months, I had been consoled by the promises of my friends. They assured me that when the autumn came I should have week after weak of glorious zunshine, a clear fresh air, and probably not a wet day between Michaelmas and Christmas. Either the season was an exceptional one, or else this is a cherished myth; there certainly were more fine days in October and November, but not a week passed without one or two when work out-of-doors was impossible. They talked, too, of the glory of the maples of hillsides and rocky ravines clothed with scarlet and crimson, and their enthusiasm in this matter was amply justified, but no one had told me of the beauty of the lilles of the field, which decorate so many of the banks between the rice patches with their tassels of glowing scarlet. I saw them first near Hamamatau, a pleasant town on the Tokado which I reached on the 16th of Sendecorate so many of the banks between the rice patches with their tassels of glowing scarlet. I saw them first near Hamamatau, a pleasant town on the Tokaido, which I reached on the 16th of September, after a little tour in the interior; their brilliant color at once attracted me, and I hastened to make drawings of them, for my passport had almost expired, and I feared that I might not find them elsewhere. There was no need to be in such a hurry, for they seem to grow abundantly wherever they get a chance. Hamamatsu was quite unlike any other Japanese town I had seen; the houses had a projecting upper story and board overhanging roofs, and the principal tradesemed to be in toys. There were shops full of drums and kites, and dolls with all their belongings, and the thousand and one things which the Japanese delight in giving to their beloved chuldren. As I based a little garden I saw what looked like a fearful atrocity—dozens of bables beads, nale and gray as if, in death, cut off at the neck and impaled on short stakes, stood about the ground; but on coming nearer, the mystery was explained; they were life-sized dolls' heads of papier-mache, put out to dry in the sun before receiving their final coat of paint. The neighboring villages were peculiar; every cottage was protected from the winds by a high hedge of clipped yew, and the street seemed to pass between two great walls, over which the heavily-thatched roofs just peeped. The openings gave a glimpse of courtyards and cottage fronts where women and men were hard at work, threshing their beans of many colors and spreading them on mats to dry, weaving blue cotton cloths, or winding off the skeins of shining yellow slk. The typhoon as fortnight earlier had strewn the Tokaido with nine treas: weaving blue cotton cloths, or winding off the skeins of shining yellow shk. The typhon a fortnight earlier had strewn the Tokaido with pine trees; a passage wide enough for a jinrikisha to pass had been sawn through some of the great prostrate trunks, and others were still supported by their mangled limbs, so that we could squeeze under them. They sadly impeded the work of a company of white-clad engineers, who, with all the latest military contrivances, were laying a field telegraph along the road. What a contrast were these sons of change to the fishermen returning from their morning's work with heavy loads of bonito, and to the peasants with their simple and primitive implements, all working and living as they have done for centuries past! Politics and changes of government matter very little to them; the rice crop and the take of fish are affairs of much more importance; they are the real life of a country, preserving its habits, costumes, and traditions, and staving off for a time the influences of railroads and steamships, which threaten to reduce man's condition throughout the world to one dull level of uniformity.

The Original Constitution.

(Harper's Young People:) The original Constitution of the United States was Constitution of the United States was written upon a long roll, that was afterward cut up and put under glass in five oak frames, two inches deep and lixis inches in size. In four of these frames are parchment sheets, easily filling the space, on which are written the Constitution of the United States. In the fifth frame are the signatures and the resolution submitting the document to the States for ratification. This is the original of our national Constitution—the only Constitution our republic ever had. Most States of the Union have had from two to half a dozen constitutions, and the Empire State has receively changed its Constitution again.

a dozen constitutions, and the Empire State has recently changed its Constitution again.

The lines of this original Constitution of the United States run across the sheet, and the penmanship is very coarse. The preamble, which so many of you can repeat, is separated from the text by a narrow space, and there is no alterny it fancy lettering in the opening words, as there is in the Articles of Confederation. Many of the signatures are the same as are found at the bottom of the Declaration of Independence. The amendments, even the very first one, the not form part of this original, but are written upon separate rolls of parchment and preserved in tin tubes that stand in the corner of a closet. The number of these tubes is greatly increased by those that contain the official radifications by the States. The earlier of these ratifications and of the earlier amendments. Later amendments, such as the celebrated fourtieenth and fifteenth, adopted at later dates, required separate ratifications and separate tubes.

ORATORICAL CONTEST.

The Programme of a Notable Intercollegiate Event.

The oratorical contest at Unity Church this evening will be a notable intercollegiate event. The contestants for honors will be from the University of Southern California, Occidental College and Pomona College. The subject of H. J. Pitman of the U.S.C. will be "The Bane of Inequality." William A. Parker of Occidental will speak on "What is Right?" and Thomas F. Brownscomb will have for his subject "The Growth of Altruism."

The U.S.C. Orchestra will furnish the music for the evening, and Miss Addie Murphy will read selections, and an address will be made by Prof. F. A. Bacon. The judges on composition and thought will be Prof. E. T. Pierce of the Normal School, Prof. Newcomer of Stanford and Rev. A. H. Carrier of Santa Barbara. The judges on delivery will be Rev. J. S. Thomson. Hon. James McLachlan and T. W. Brotherton. The prizes will be awarded by Rev. John Gray, D.D., with an address.

Fast Travel in Japan.

Fast Travel in Japan.

(Alfred Parsons, in Harper's Magazine for May.) At Tokimata I engaged a boat with five men to take me down the rapids as far as the Tokaido; the river was running high, and they would not do it for less than twenty-four yen—a good price for a journey of only ten or twelve hours; but when you remember that it takes them ten days or a fortnight to haul the boat back, it does not seem excessive. Don Pedro's remark, "What need the bridge much wider than the flood?" does not apply to most of the Japanese rivers; usually they are just a trickle of water among a wide bed of pebbles, which is filled after a heavy rain with a raging forrent, but Lake Suwa serves as a reservoir for the Tenryugawa, and it always has enough water to be navigable. The boats used on it are about thirty feet long, flat-bottomed and flat-sided, with a square stern and a high, pointed bow; they are very loosely built and flexible, and the bottom boards are so thin that they wabble like a sheet of paper when passing over rough water or shallows. A heavy foot would break through them, and it is necessary to tread only on the bamboos which are laid lengthwise, resting on the cross-ribs.

My baggage was piled in the middle of the boat, and a seat arranged on it for Matsuba and myself, one man took the long stern oar while the other four worked in the bows, and within a few minutes of the boat, and a seat arranged on it for Matsuba and myself, one man took the long stern oar while the other four worked in the bows, and within a few minutes of the boat, and a seat arranged on it for Matsuba and myself, one man took the long stern oar while the other four worked in the bows, and within a few minutes of the boat, and a seat arranged on it for Matsuba and myself, one man took the long stern oar while the other four worked in the bows, and within a few minutes of the start we were plunging down between the high cliffs, charging at rocks which we only avoided by a few inches, swirling round in eddies at the foot of one rapid while t the little village of Nakabe there was no time to scketch or think, or do anything but enjoy the wild exciting race. The river twists, between high mountains, down a gorge with auch sharp curves that it is often impossible to see any exit, and our boat would rush down, heading straight for a cilif against which the water dashed furiously; while one man in the bows whacked the side with his paddle for luck, and then stood ready with a pole, the other three pulled like mad, and just when I thought "we must come to grief this time." she would suddenly turn and swish round the corner into smoother water. The rapids continued to be amusing, though the fun was not quite so fast and furious, all the way to Kajimi, where the mountains end and a broad plain begins; below here the river still runs swiftly, but smoothly, divided into several channels by long gravel banks, on which gray willows and bamboo grew, and snipe and herons congregated. We met strings of boats being laboriously towed along; the wind generally blows up stream, and they are able on these lower reaches to help themselves by hoisting a sail, but I shall never understand how they get their boats back through those upper rapids . . The pace is tremendous; we did the ninety miles from Tokimata to Naka-nomachi in ten hours of actual traveling, though the latter portion of the journey was on comparatively sluggish water.

THE NATIONAL BANK OF CALIFORNIA.

The National Bank of California is one of the few banks that successfully stood the shock of the late panic and maintained full coin payments right through.

The National Bank of California pays no interest on deposits in any form, offers no special inducements for business other than feitability when the customers exercise their right to demand their money.

Bithe matter of loans it looks more to reliability than high rates of into rest, and desires on ones except from good and reliable parties, and then exacts good security, believing that no banks better or more reliable than its loans.

PASADENA.

THE ELECTRIC CARS WORKING LIKE A CHARM.

Instructive Remarks on House Ven-tilation—Some Gossip Over Ho-tel Matters—Reception to a New Pastor.

PASADENA, May 5.—(Special Correspondence.) The fine weather of today brought hundreds of people out on the electric cars to Pasadems and environs. The streets have presented a gay spectacle all day, and the local confectionery and ice-cream business has been more flourishing than at any time since the floral tournament, January 1, though that such trade should then have been brisk will sound strange to ears castern. There has been unstituted commendation of the beauty of the cars, and the amoothness with which they have made the trip from the city, and, incidentally, the scent features of the route have come in for much praise. The electric road is a great success, and the hundreds in Los Angeles who warn a breathing time amid beautiful surroundings, and whose time is so limited that they cannot be subjected to time-tables of railways, have gone home astisfied with the experiment of visiting their sistereity over the new route, and sering Pasadena in the full pride of her spring glory. The thermometer touched the highest point for many months this afternoon, but the heat was tempered by a sea breeze, and the sunshine seemed heavenly after the long and disagreeable season of cloud and fog. Pasadem's rouse have suffered severcly from sings and insects, and the runshine came just in time to prevent serious damage to garden crops.

Flous damage to garden crops.

HOUSE VENTILIATION.

Dr. Van Slyck read an able and instructive paper before the medical society of Pasadena Friday evening upon "House Vencilation," and drew attention to the fact that many persons who are extra scrupulous in regard to cleanliness, persistently disregard proper altherition to house ventilation. He placed much stress upon the fact that the emmanations from the lungs are poleonous, and thist contaminated air cannot be breathed without the most serious danger to the health. He slated that it is as increased to remove such air from houses, churches and halls as it is to remove sewage, and yet archiclects neglect the provision of proper facilities for the purpose, contenting themselves if they provide, windows for the ingress of pure air, and arrange them in such a way thist the object is defeated by the fear of taking cold from sixting in the draught. Dr. Van Slyck's remarks apply specially to the public buildings of Pasadena, and there are few persons who have for noticed the complications absence of proper ventilation in most of our church buildings. The school buildings, too, should be severely criticised. Lacking proper heaking facilities, in the cold and rainy days, it is a necessity that the windows should be closed, for warmth, and the air becomes unspeakably foul in a very short time. This is especially true of some of the rooms in the Wilson school, which thus become a sort of disease exchange, where our chifdren, to use the words of a great English writer, "barter meacles, whore) our chifferin, to use the words of a great English writer, barter meacles, whore) our chifferin, to use the words of a great English writer, barter meacles, whore our chifferin, to use the words of a great English writer, barter meacles, whore our chifferin, to use the words of a great English writer, barter meacles, whore our chifferin, to use the words of a great English writer, barter meacles, whore our chifferin, to use the words of a great English writer, barter meacles, whore

ders, aird other infanille ills, as though they were the stock in trade of a lugubrious market."

The Chty Hall, too, is a disgrace to a civilized community, in the matter of ventilation. The office of the City Clerk in particular reeks with bad air, at all times when the outer door is not wide open, and it would require lungs of brass to withstand the poison of the vitiated atmosphere. The Council-chamber has wirklows, to be sure, but there seems to be an invincible repugnance to having them either raised or lowered, and the city fathers, when they meet to transact the Council business, convene in the invisible company of the floating bacteria of dead-and-gone eloquence, whose odor at least differs forever like an evil memory about their devoted heads, and is inspired into their devoted heads, and is inspired into their devoted heads, and is inspired into their devoted heads, and in the community should at once at one by building a new and spacious city which the community should at once is always a crime against good living, for which the community should at once atone by building a new and spacious city building with all modern improvements, and presenting it to the Council with their blessing. It is certainly enough that our city officers should give their services to the community, without being stinted for breath while they are doing it, and it requires a right smart quantity of breath, too, to perform official duties acceptably.

HOTEL MATTERS.

It is whispered among the few who pretend to know, that Col. Green and Mr. Holmes went to Santa Monica on Thursday with the intent to purchase the Arcadia Hotel, but that they were a little too late, as another party had made the purchase before they got there. Apropos of hotels, Architect Parkes is hard at work on plans for the new Raymond, and from expressions dropped by Gen. Wendworth before his departure Bast, it is thought that the new Raymond will rise from the ashes of the sold, before another year. It is said that estimates have been called for from contractors, and building preliminaries are being adjusted, and the Raymond project has therefore evidently assumed new shape, but just what shape can not be definitely ascertained at the present. HOTEL MATTERS.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

In Recorder Rossiter's court, Saturday, John Knapp and Samuel Cochran were each given thirty days for battery, having engaged in a street broil; Michael McAnany was fined $10 for disturbing the peace, as was also Fred Palmater. William Colon was up that he might be brought to a "pasise" in a course of malicious mischief, and R. B. Morehead was muloted $5 for leaving his horse unhitched in the street. The Union Ice Company's horse ran away late in the afternoon and was brought to a stand by Officer Goltmann and taken to the police station, where the owner reclaimed it upon payment of the usual fine for leaving a steed free to follow its wasyward will.

The Misses Lentz have returned from the meeting of the Woman's Parliament in Santa Barbara, and report an enthusiastic meeting. Margaret Colher Graham, our distinguished townswoman, upheid the literary reputation of Pasadena, and Dr. Rachael Reid, also of Pasadena, received mainy honors, as did others of the local delegates. Mrs. Keyes, the delegate of the Shakespeare Club, was unfortunately unable to be present during the entire session, having been called home on account of illness in the family.

The First Congregational Church will give its new pasior, Rev. Herbert Lathe, a reception Monday evening, to which mombers of the congregation and community are toordaily invited.

SOLDIERS' HOME Maj. Truman's Lecture Appreciated.

Distinguished Visitors—Notes.

SOLDIERS' HOME, May 5.—(Special Correspondence.) As had been anticipated, Assembly Hall was too small for the audience which gathered there on Tuesday evening hast to listen to the lecture before John A. Martin Post, G.A.R., by Maj. Ben Truman. Past Commander J. M. Davis presided, and, having gracefully welcomed all veterans, introduced the speaker of the evening as a solder, author and journalist of national reputation. Maj. Truman's subject was "Great Sayings of Great Soldiers," proving to be a unique and weil-arranged collection of historical utterances. The address was followed with close attention and was frequently interrupted by applause. Maj. Truman will contribute his literary production to the home fibrary for the benefit of all residers. In his audience Tuesday evening sat Gov. Rowland and family. Dr. Hasse and family, Maj. Upham and Drs. Puet and Robbins. The Home Band furnished the music and the vote of thanks to the speaker was rousing and enthusiastic.

Senator Cullom and his party, in a special car, passed the home on last Tuesday afternoon. The Senator was accompanied from Santa Monica by Gov. Rowland, who is a fellow Illinoisian and old acquaintance. A short stop was made at the home station and a number of veterans from Illinois regiments warmly greeted the distinguished Senator.

Capt. Robert E. Pisk, late of the Sixtysixth and One Hundred and Thirty-second New York Volunteers, commander of the department of Montana G.A.R., and a resident of Helena, Mont., was a visitor at the home on Saturday. The State of Montana faving appropriated $10,000 for the erection of a Soldiers' Home, the captain was seeking information, and had the benefit of a conference with Gov. Rowland, He will also visit the State Home at Yountville, Cal.

Today's rolicall showed the following membership of this branch of the home: Present, 1272; absent on furlough, 334; total, 1605.

Death has not entered the home precinct so from has precised on the recent additions of a large bullsnake and season, has been supplied with a soda fountain.

Fort Fisher Post, G.A.R., of Santa Monica, has sent invitations to the home organizations, and posted them for all vereans, to join with them in appropriate observance of Memorial day. As usual the day will be given due honors at the home.

the day will be given due honors at the home.

The work of removing all traces of the winter rains from the home grounds and clearing away the overgrowth of vegetation which they occasioned, is well advanced, and the premises look correspondingly cleaner and more attractive.

Under authority of the Board of Managers, Gov. Rowland has purchased a printing outfit for the Pacific branch. Hereafter all orders and circulars pertaining to this branch will be printed by home labor. As in the Union army during the war, so in the membership of the home severy trade and "ofession is represented, and a detail for compositors or pressmen can be made at an hour's notice.

HIGH-SCHOOL SENIORS PUBLISH AN EXPLANATION.

Question of an Electric Lighting Plant for Santa Ana - More About the Street-car Company-E. Turner Dead.

BANT'A ANA, May 5.—(Special Correspondence.) The young seniors who "abducted" their funior colleague, Mr. Molntier, a few evenings ago, to prevent his attendance at a party at Dr. Dryer's, are quite indignant at the reports that have been circulated in regard to the affair, and in last evening's Blade published the Tollowing denial of ceroain charges previously made in that paper:

"To the Public: In order to correct the mistake in yesterday's Blade, we claim it our privilege to state the facts. Mr.

it our privilege to state the facts. Mr. McIntler was simply taken for a ride, in order what he might not addend the party in costume. He was neither gagged, as in costume. He was neither gagged, as his yelling would prove, nor roughly handled, as his present condition shows. He made all the noise that disturbed the guests. It was nower our intention to leave him anywhere but at Dr. Dryer's." The dental is signed by F. Monaghan, W. Martin, James Caskey, H. Cleaver, John Nourse, Ed Whison.

It now transpires that the "abductors" really suffered more inconvenience than their victim, for it was he, who, obtaining a grip on one of the these, pulled the team around and tipped the buggy over, spilling the occupants out, and, it is said, disclosabiling one of the captor's shoulders. The whole matter was undoubtedly intended as a harmless joke, but such a practice cannot be belerated, as it detracts from the dignity and application which high-school scholars should bestow upon their studies.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

The arguments for and against the municipal ownership of an electric-lighting plant for this city are becoming both warm and voluminous. The ordinance califor an electron for the purpose of voling als,000 for the establishment of such a plant will probably come up for its second reading at the meeting of the City Trustees tomorrow (Monday) evening, when it is expected that it will be passed and the date fixed for the election. Judging from the expressions on all sides, the people generally want to be heard through the buildt-box on this matter, and a majority of the citizens are undoubledly in lavor of the city owning the plant. As it requires a two-thirds vote to carry the bonds, however, it is by no means certain that they will be indorzed, afthough the agitators of the movement are very eanguine of success. Mr. Holmes, the president of the electric company, has made a proposedion to furnish thirty are street lights, of 1200 candile-power each, for $5.50 per month. This would amount to $2340 per year, which Chairman Hunt of the Trustees says is absolutely out of the question. The plans and specifications adopted by the fast previous board provide for forty 2000-candile-power street lights, and, as it is also proposed that the city shall operate an incandescent ayatem as well, and all in chancetton with the waterworks, it is believed that the municipal ownership will prove a paying investment. One thing is certain, Santua Anamust be better flighted. The territory covered at present with twelve lights is entirely the large, and much complaint is constantily teding made as to their latek of brilliancy. The plan adopted by the City Trustees is to not only increase the lights from 1200 to 2000 candile-power but to have present ones.

STREET-CAR INJUNCTION.

It has been current the past two days that an endeavor had been made by City Attorney West to procure an injunction against the street-car company from one of the Los Angeles Superior Courts. This, however, is entirely incorrect. The proceedings have been confined to this court, and the result was given in The Timesthis morning.

The present paving trouble has brought Trustee Ga.ner to the conclusion that the best material for paving purposes by long odds that has yet been suggested would be the cheek of M. J. Bundy, the street-car superintendent, but that gentleman refuses to shandon the "adobe and gravel."

The Clerical Postal Force Reduction
Causes Euch Indignation.

SAN DIEGO, May 5.—(Special Correspondence.) People are indignant at the reduction of the clerical force in the post-office. The carrier delivery is something of a farce in this city. Mail is delivered nearly twenty-four hours after its receipt by carriers, in many parts of the city. Citizens desiring to receive their mail promptly need to hire a box in the post-office and go there for it. Owing to a decrease in the revenues of the office during the strikes last July the national authorities conclude that the appropriations for the office should be reduced. The clerks are compelled to do their own janitor work, and the public service is severely crippled. The short-sighted policy of the postal authorities amazes unprejudiced observers.

REDLANDS.

REDLANDS, May 5.—(Special Correspondence.) At the First M. E. Church, this morning, Rev. E. J. Inwood took for his text, "The God that answereth by fire." The speaker dwelt upon the power of fire, first, to purify. The pure gold is that which has passed through the refiner's fire. Second, to consume. The context shows that the wood, stones and water were burned up. When the church was baptized with the Holy Ghost and fire, worldliness and selfshness, heresy—everything contrary to love to Godwas destroyed. The great need of today, the speaker said, is a purified, God-possessed church, burning with a mighty impulse for perishing humanity. Third, the power of fire to spread. This is true of the holy fire. Look at Pentecost. Look at New England shaken to its center under the revival of Finney. Get the fire baptism, he said, and it will spread in the home, the church and the community. How can it be obtained? First, by prayer. Neither church nor pastor can kindle this fire. It comes from the throne of God, and prayer moves the hand which moves the world to bring salvation down. Second, faith. What mighty faith Elijah had to dare to make such a challenge! Third, obedence. Elijah must first stand before Ahab. Prayer, faith and obedience, linked together, is a trinity which is omnipotent. The amount of delinquent taxes due the State and county from Redlands is less than $600.

(Electric Review:) A feature in the electrical display at the Cotton States and International Exposition to be held at Atlanta, Ga. from September 18 to December 31, 1895, will be the immense battleship searchlight, which will be placed by the Naval Department on the highest dome of the government building. So brilliant will be the light that a newspaper can be throwing its of the grounds. So brilliant will be the light that a newspaper can be read by it miles away, and the weird and marvelous scenic effects that will be produced as it shifts like a phantom from point to point, lighting up domes and cupolas, can be likened only to a dream from the "Arabian Nights."

EXCITEMENT IN WASHINGTON ON RECEIPT OF THE NEWS.

(Nosh Brooks in the Century for May:)

The City Was Ablaze with Enthusi-asm and a General Holiday Was Observed—Speech-making and Music.

The army of Grant had been enveloping Petersburg on March 28 and 29, and about 10 o'clock on the morning of April 3 word was received in Washington from President Lincoln at City Point that that city had been evacuated, and that our army was pushing into it, sweeping around it, and pursuing the flying squadrons of Lee. At a quarter to eleven in that forenoon came a dispatch to the War Department from Gen. Weitzel, dated at Richmond, announcing the fail of the Confederate capital. It was not many minutes before the news spread like wild-

Confederate capital. It was not many minutes before the news spread like wildfire through Washington, and the intelligence, at first doubted, was speedily made positive by the circulation of thousands of newspaper "extras" containing the news in bulletins issued from the War Department. In a moment-of time the city was ablaze with an excitement the like of which was never seen before, and everybody who had a piece of bunting spread it to the breeze; and from one end of Pennsylvania avenue to the other the air seemed to burn with the bright hues of the fag. The sky* was shaken by a grand salute of 300 guns, fired by order of the Secretary of War-300 for Petersburg and 500 for Richmond.

Almost by magic the streets were crowded with hosts of people, talking, laughing, hurrahing and shouting in the fullness of their joy. Men embraced one another, "treated" one another, made up old quarrels, renewed old friendships, marched through the streets arm in arm, singing and chatting in that happy sort of abandon which characterizes people when under the influence of a great and universal happiness. The atmosphere was full of the intoxication of joy. The departments of the government and many stores and private offices were closed for the day, and hosts of hard-worked clerks had their full share of the general holiday. Bands of music, apparently without any special direction or formal call, paraded the streets, and boomed and blared from every public place, until the air was resonant with the expression of the popular jubilation in all the national airs, not forgetting "Dixie," which, it will be remembered, President Lincoln afterward declared to be among the spoils of war.

The American habit of the same and the same never before so consplcuously exemplified. Wherever any man was found who could make a speech, or who thought he could make a speech, there a speech was made; and a great many who had the same made one found themselves never before made one found themselves thrust upon a crowd of enthusiastic sovereigns who demanded of them something by way of jubilant oratory. One of the best of these offhand addresses extorted by the enthusiastic crowds was that of Secretary Stanton, who was called upon at the War Department by an eager multitude clamprous for more details and for a speech.

by the enchusiastic crowds was talted upon at the Wair Department by an eager multitude clamorous for more details and for a speech.

The Secretary then read Grant's dispatch, announcing the capture of Richmond, and the fact that the city was on fire, upon which the Secretary asked the crowd what they would reply to Grant. Some cried, "Let her burn!" others, "Burn it! burn at!" but one voice shouted "Hold Richmond for the Northern mid-sills!" which eally was received with considerable laughter. Mr. Stanton introduced to the crowd Willie Kettles, a bright vormont boy atbout 14 years old, an operator in the telegraph-room of the War Office, who had been the fortunate recipient of the important dispatch announcing the capture of Richmond. Of course the crowd wanted a speech from the kad, who discreetly held his tongue, and bowed with modesty.

The day of jubilee did not end with the day, but rejoicing and cheering were prolonged far into the night. Many illuminated their houses, and bands were still playing, and leading men and public officials were estenaded all over the city. There are always hosts of people who drown their joys effectually in the flowing bowl, and Washington on April 3 was full of those. Thousands besieged the drinking-salodys, champagne popped everywhere, and a more Hquerish crowd was never seen in Washington than on that night, Many and many a man of years of habitual cobriety seemed to think it a partiotic duty to "get full" on that eventful night, and net only so, but to advertise the fact of fullness as widely as possible. I saw one big, sedate Vernomiter, chief of an executive bureau, stunding on the corner of F and Fourteenth streets, with owlish gravity giving away 50-cent "shin-playsers" (fracticnal curren.) to every colored person who came past him, brokenly saying with each gift, "Babylen has fallen!"

On the night of April 4, in pursuance of a recommendation of the Secretary of State, the city was generally illuminated. All the public buildings and a great proportion of private resi home union is order, and union is peace. Abroad union is strength, and strength is peace." Over another entrance of the building was: "Peace and good will to all nations, but no entangling alliances and no foreign intervention." The treasury had over its chief entrance a huge transparency which was a tolerable imitation of e ten-dollar interest-bearing United States note, with a mammoth facsimile of Treasurer Spinner's signature in all taunique ugliness. The treasury motto was: "U. S. greenbacks and U. S. Grant. Grant gives the greenbacks a metallic ring."

A VITAL QUESTION.

A Sanitary Sewer Needed for the County Hospital.

The necessary proceedings will, it is expected, be instituted within about two weeks so that, if they be prosecuted with due diligence, the County Hospital may be connected with a sewer within a few This question, as is well known, has been before the City Council and the Board of Supervisors in one form or an-other for a number of years. The sewage from the County Hospital is so great in from the County Hospital is so great in quantity that it is impracticable to turn it into cesspools and, consequently, there being no public sewer nearer than one mile from the institution, the only means of disposing of this sewage has been to discharge it into the Arroyo de Los Posas. This arroyo is a natural waterway and a stream of two or more heads of water is flowing through it constantly.

The stream of sewage discharged from the hospital into the arroyo is in volume about five miners' inches. In order to cause as little damage from the sewage as possible it is, before being discharged into the arroyo, diverted into a straining box charged with quicklime. This, however, removes only a part of the filth from it.

The arroyo follows a winding course southerly, crossing First street about one-half mile east of the river. It flows on toward the southern part of the city. A number of cases of typhold fever have, beyond reasonable doubt, been traced whis pollution of the waters of the arroyo, and people who live in the neighborhood of the stream have nearly lost patience with the condition of affairs.

Some of them have declared that if the situation be not remedied in the near future they will bring suit against the county authorities for polluting a natural waterway.

The Supervisors admit that the present method of disposing of the sewage from the County Hospital creates a serious nuisance, but say they are doing the best that can be done under the circumstances. The District Attorney, they say, has advised them that the county in its ownership of the County Hospital property is, under the law, the same as an individual would be as far as sewer connections are concerned. They are ready, and for years have been ready, to connect with a sewer but they want the City Council to furnish them the public sewer with which to connect.

them the public sewer with which to connect.

Some of the Supervisors say that if suit be brought against the county authorities as has been threatened, for maintaining a nuisance as above stated, it will compel them to abandon the present hospital and establish a small one outside the city. The city, which they say, is contributing about nine-tenths of the patients who find their way into the institution, will then have to provide a hospital and care for its own-patients.

The City Council three or four weeks ago directed the City Engineer to present an ordinance of intention for the sewering of the nortion of Main street formerly known as Kuhrts street. To build such a sewer would put it within reach of connection from the County Hospital.

Such instructions to the City Engineer were easily issued, but in order to present the ordinance directed a large amount of preparatory work is necessary.

The sewer to be laid on that part of Main street will, it is stated, have to be of so large a size that it would be unfair to compel the owners of abutting property to pay the whole cost of it. Consequently the sewer will have to be built as a part of a district sewer.

Before the proceedings can be started it will be necessary to make the surveys. "Yun" the required levels. lay out the proper district and prepare the pichs therefor, which altogether requires a good deal of time.

Although as yet not definitely determined, it is expected the houndary.

for, which altogether requires a good deal of time.

Although as yet not definitely determined, it is expected the boundaries of the district will approximate Darvin avenue on the north, Gates street on the east. Althambra avenue on the south, and Daly street on the west.

It is intended to have the ordinance of intendion for the construction of sewers in this district ready for presentation to the City Council two weeks from today.

Even though the proceedings be carried on as rapidly as possible, it will be reveral months before the sewers in the district can be completed so that connections with them may be made.

SQUEEZED BY A CAR.

A BAD ACCIDENT ON BUENA VISTA-STREET BRIDGE.

Two Men and a Little Girl Painfully Injured-Cars are Either Too Wide or the Bridge Too Narrow.

On the Buena Vista-street bridge of the electric railway company yesterday oc-curred an accident that came near being a fatality. As it is, one man was badly crushed, another had his head bruised. and a little child was badly cut in the

Owing to the Turners' picnic at Sycamore Grove, and it being the first Sunday that electric cars were run through to Pasadena, the cars were unusually crowded.
W. M. Corey, a young man from Ventura, in the employ of Mead, Wright & Co., was hanging onto the front platform of one of the overcrowded cars going north, about 1:30 p.m. As it ran upon the bridge, the unfortunate man was leaning so far out that, he came in contact with one of the posts of the bridge, and in an instant he was being rolled along between the trusses and the side of the car. Before the car could be stopped be was badly squeezed, could be stopped he was badiy squeezed, and several of the windows of the car were broken in, causing a panic among the passengers. A piece of broken glass etruck a little girl about 3 years old, below the eye, cutting out a piece of flesh that laid bare the cheekbone.

A friend of Corey, who stood on the platform with him, was struck on the nose and on the side of the head, and was badly brulsed.

Corey was taken to the Receiving Hospital as soon as possible, where Dr. Ains bruised.

Corey was taken to the Receiving Hospital as soon as possible, where Dr. Ainsworth attended to his injuries. It was found that no bones were broken, and as soon as he had recovered somewhat from the shock he was removed to the disters' Hospital, where, at 10 o'clock last night, he was reported doing nicely.

General Manayer Clark of the electric road, when seen last night, said in regard to the accident that it was not due to carelessness on the part of the employees. He said the trainmen had orders to stop all cars before crossing the bridge, and to warn the passengers to get inside. This was done yesterday, and Corey had also been warned by his fellow-passengers not to stand on 'he steps in crossing, but he did not heed the warning, and through his own recklessness got injured.

As a matter of fact, the construction of the bridge is at fault, for it is too narrow even for the ordinary cars, and the Pasadena coaches are so much wider that they can scarcely get through. Though the bridge accommodated the regular line of Buena Vista street cars, the new coaches of the Pasadena and Los Angeles line were found to be so wide that they would not ge through until some bridge timbers had been removed, and in addition the track was so changed as to permit the cars to run straight upon the bridge and not over so short a curve.

It is explained that the accident haprun straight upon the bridge and not over so short a curve.

It is explained that the accident hap-pened in a car of the Pasadena and Loa Angeles Electric Railway Company, which is a corporation separate from the Los An-geles Railway Company, successor to the Los Angeles Consolidated Electric Railway Company, and using the tracks of the lat-ter company under a lease.

Lo! the Olive Branch.

(Detroit Journal:) Under the head of "Pension Bummers" the Memphis (Tenn.) Appeal prints a lost-cause editorial, beginning thus: "The bottle-scarred veterans of the G.A.R. are wild with rage." The remainder of the article may be judged by this felicitous introduction. It is placed in evidence to show how true, how very true, it is that the only men who are keeping alive the sectional bitterness of the late war—or we should say unpleasantness—are those of the North. How positively reassuring it is to read. How pleasant, how more than delightful how postively reassuring it is to rea in one of the South's representative jour nals such sweet and tender testimony showing its earnest desire for restore brotherly love! John Bradbury, tiring of having "his leg pulled" weekly to meet the alarming discrepancies between receipes and expenses, having disposed of his controlling interest to a syndicate, headed by W. S. Creighton, William Lacy and John W. Francis. Mr. Bradbury has had some few months of Iglory and "inflooence," but has likely discovered that journatism is a business that requires as much attention and concentration of purpose as any other pursuit in which men successfully engage. As a divertisement, a source of amusement, a newspaper is rather an expensive luxury, a fact which rather an expensive luxury, a fact Mr. Bradbury no doubt realizes by this time. He is, however, entitled to all the satisfaction he can derive from his jour-nalistic experience, having paid for it in good hard cash.

Frank Commendation of a Grass Valley Citizen.

Hon. T. F. Kidder of Nevada county, who was in Los Angeles during the flesta, gives his impressions of what he saw, and which are published in the Grass Val-and which are published in the Grass Valley Tidings. He says:

"I did not travel extensively over the southern part of the State, but I was in Los Angeles during the great festival. La Fiesta. The manner in which the southern metropolis inaugurated and conducted this most interesting event is proof of the capacity of those southern fellows for large undertakings and thorough work. It is questionable if the greatest Mardi Gras festival ever held in New Orleans, or the kindred celebration in St. Louis, could surpass in general effect or in detail the pageant which marched through the streets of Los Angeles during La Fiesta. The allegorical floats, the decorated equipages, the wealth of floral display was enough to make a visitor fresh from the mountain districts of the Sierras stand in open-eyed wonder. California never saw anything like it. But I would not venture to say that she may not again see the like for these chans down again see the like, for those chaps down there keep putting the peg a little higher every year."
